THE BATES MIRROR
C. Bradford

Dedication

To our new Dean of Men, to the Professor whose all inclusive interests range with the same unabating enthusiasm and expert judgment from classroom to athletic field, whose keen understanding is so perfectly attuned to the undergraduate life, whose tireless energies and far-seeing policies are ever making for a bigger and a better Bates, the class of 1922 respectfully dedicates this MIRROR.

Fred Elmer Pomeroy, A.M.

"Pom"

"We'll—er—trytofixitup—er—so thateveryonewillbe—er—satisfied."

SENIORS

CLARENCE EVERETT ALLEN, A.B.

"Al"

I count them over, one by one—
My handkerchiefs, my handkerchiefs!

—Apologies to "The Rosary."

Born March 27, 1901, South Braintree, Mass.; Sumner High School; Class Track, 1, 2, 3, 4; Class Football, 2; Varsity Football, 2, 4; Glee Club, 3, 4; Mandolin Club, 2, 3, 4; Deutscher Verein, 4; Cercle Francais, 4; Outing Club, 2, 3, 4.

Endowed with a frame which Sandow might well envy, gifted with powers of speech which he fondly imagines gets them all, Al has drifted casually through college. His deep voice is well suited to the guttural sobbings of his major, German, and also to telephoning; when a chance passer-by sees him draped gracefully over the mouthpiece and hears him address "Ella" now, "Alice" still later, "Lena" again, ad infinitum, reason totters on its throne and we wonder what charm he possesses. He's always ready for a good time, though the bill for broken furniture may mount into three figures. A staunch friend, a genial comrade, Al is due to arrive somewhere with success gripped in one brawny fist and, we have hopes, a Gilette in the other!

MARGUERITE STANLEY ARMSTRONG, A.B.

Born Maidstone, Vt.; Lancaster Academy; Forum; New Hampshire Club, 1, 2, 3, 4, President, 4; Seniority, 3, 4; Enkuklios; Outing Club; Y. W. C. A.

Maggie has a very logical mind. If you doubt it, just ask "Pa" Gould or Prof. Carroll, or know ye that she's Goosie's assistant in Medieval History. Her mind is a filing system wherein everything is catalogued: 1, 2, 3, sub a, b, c, continued ad infinitum. Even the great mighties of debating appreciate this quality. And Maggie's sense of humor is known to be beyond comparison; her remark is the unexpected, as friend "George" says.

Remember us, Maggie, in the business world.

JOHN WILLIAM ASHTON

The blond-haired Saxon, single purposed, strove
To reach his goal and, laughing, gained the heights.

Born July 11, 1900, Lewiston, Me.; Jordan High School; Forum, 1, 2, 3; Politics Club, 3, 4, Secretary, 4; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, 3; Spofford Club, 2, 3, 4; Assistant Manager Track, 3; Freshman Prize Debate; Sophomore Prize Debate; Ivy Oration; Junior Exhibition; Varsity Debate, 4; Debating Medal; Debating Council, 2, 3, 4, Secretary, 3; Student Board, 3; Assistant English, 2, 3, 4; Geology, 4; Business Manager, MIRROR; Delta Sigma Rho.

Bill is an excellent two-legged specimen of a true Bates gentleman and scholar. If he's on a committee, conscientious and complete work is assured from him. Yea, he spilleth over words in debate even as doth an overflowing rain barrel drops of pellucid water, nor doth he forget overly much that fair woman constituteth a goodly portion of the race. Brilliant in studies, happy in temperament, Bill will long be remembered by his class as a jolly scout, a real sport, a keen thinker—a triumvirate difficult to beat. By the way, Bill, who's to be best man? And will it be single or double ring service?

BENJAMIN WALDO AVERY, B.S.

"Ikey"

The sculptor hacked and hewed at his rough mass,
And lo! From out the block appeared a Man!

Born Dec. 5, 1901, Jefferson, Me.; Lincoln Academy; Manager Bates Student, 3; Manager Tennis, 3; Press Club; Class Track, 4.

To this youth, with his frank, open face and Elgin movement, can be applied that phrase embodying praise, "He can be depended upon." He almost always has a wide grin, yet at times his straw-colored thatch bristles with righteous indignation as his "honah is trifled with, suh!" as Marse Watterson might say. "Ikey" is also a keen philosopher and many times has burbled forth on the "Whatness of the Whence" in Doc Britan's psycopathic ward over in Hathorn. He's had his A.M. (Almost Married) degree conferred already, and perhaps this goes hand in hand with his ability as a manager. Combined in him are the fine qualities of a real man of Maine together with the best that Bates imparts to her sons, a sort of two in one polish.

WILLIAM OSCAR BAILEY, B.S.

"Bill"

He gaineth fame by mixing potent brews
But trifleth not with that one yclept "home."

Born Aug. 14, 1900, Auburn, Me.; Edward Little High School; Class Track, 1; Class Football, 2, 3, Acting Manager, 3, Manager, 4; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, President, 4; Chemistry Assistant, 4.

Football manager and Jordan Scientific prexy—two of the most honored offices in college life—have both found Bill in the saddle. Long lab hours and off-campus residence have not prevented him from becoming one of the popular men of twenty-two. He is, moreover, a very discriminating lad and spends little time with co-eds, everything in this respect being labeled "Outside Activities." If there's a tough job to be done, Bill wrinkles up his brow, takes a fresh hitch to his trousers, pipes a few pungent remarks in his high-toned voice, and goes and does it. He is no self-advertiser, but suffice it to say that he stands in the ranks of the leaders of the class. No, Rollo, he does not play the ukelele.

MAVORETTE EVELYN BLACKMER, A.B.

"The sweetness of a woman is as much in her silence as in her words."

Born Nov. 23, 1898, Erving, Mass.; Cushing Academy; Y. W. C. A.; World Fellowship Committee, 3; Macfarlane Club, 2, 3, 4; Entre Nous; Alethea, 2; Seniority, 3, 4; Enkuklios; I. C. S. A., 2, 3; Le Petit Salon, 1, 2, 3, 4, Treasurer, 2; Massachusetts Club, 1, 2, 3, 4, Secretary, 2.

One of the sweetest of them all, a quiet little friend to all, is our Mavie. The only time she is noisy is when she gets behind her pipe organ and makes lovely music for us. Neither an athlete nor a society lady, yet she has her distinct place among us, and we love her for her unfailing friendliness. She is a persistent and earnest student in spite of her health, which has not always been good. She looks happiest when she is beside her dear Maudie (and so does Maudie). The twinkle in her bright eyes has always made us feel that there was quite a big vein of humor there, and we know it is all good humor, too.

ELEANORE RAE BRADFORD, A.B.

"Yee have many stringes to your bowe."

Born Jan. 20, 1901, Buckland, Mass.; Arms Academy; Baseball 2nd, 1; Soccer 2nd, 2; Soccer, 3; Hockey, 4; Entre Nous, 1; Prize Speaking, 1, Prize, 1; Spofford Club, 2, 3, 4, Secretary-Treasurer, 4; U. A. C. C., 2; Prize Speaking, 2; Junior Exhibition; Ivy Day Committee; Greek Club, 2; Deutscher Verein, 4; Seniority; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Poster Committee, 3, 4; Enkuklios; History Assistant, 4; English Assistant, 4; Bates Student Board; Massachusetts Club; MIRROR Board.

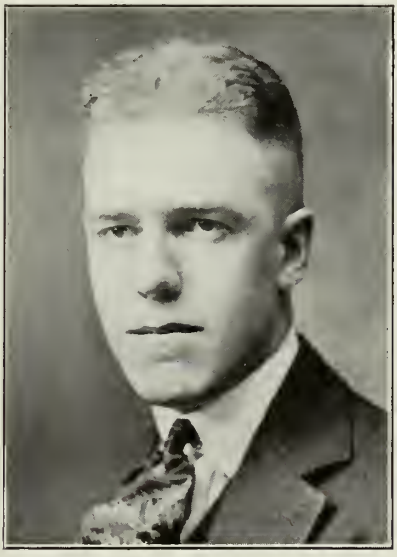
Art—whether it's Wallace Nutting or Cimabui—but always and forever—Art! And Eleanore's keen interest in art never succeeds in causing her to neglect any other line of work. Have you known of any drama being given at Bates during the last four years without her ceaseless and very efficient labors? Isn't she always ready to join you on a trip to "George's"? And we wonder if she ever slipped up on a written—even at the height of her busy time in some other activity. Prof. Gould could probably tell us,—but we know whether or not he would! Eleanore also has a reputation for jazz—and an interest in Amherst, Mass.

HOMER CHENERY BRYANT, A.B.

He argued long on woman and her wiles,
Professing dev'lish knowledge of her ways.

Born June 10, 1899, Wayne, Me.; Deering High School; Macfarlane Club, 2, 3, 4; Deutscher Verein, 4; Phil-Hellenic Club, 4; Outing Club, 3, 4; Y. M. C. A. Advisory Board, 4; Chairman, Church and Community Co-operation, 4; Leader, Voluntary Study Group, 4; Captain, Bates-in-China, 4.

When Homer spilled pint measures of liquid blue notes all over the organ four years ago, we knew his mind must have been elsewhere, possibly in Portland, but there have been times when we have heard him put his whole sole, leather and ethereal, into his playing, and how he can make that instrument weep, groan, howl, whisper, and sing tenor! Homer admits that college has taught him much—how to talk turkey with college presidents, when and when not to blush, etc.; we know him as courteous, considerate, obliging, a real musician, and he goes out from Bates bearing deep-stamped in his character the hallmark of a true Christian gentleman of noteworthy pursuits and ambitions.



RAYMOND BATES BUKER, A.B.

"Ray"

Now, Mercury, hand to me your sandals swift,
And I will use them in the cause of man.

Born Aug. 27, 1899, Foster, R. I.; Mount Hermon Academy; Freshman Prize Debate; Varsity Track, 1, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Cross Country, 2, 3, 4; Captain, Track and Cross Country, 4; Politics Club, Treasurer, 4; Phil-Hellenic Club; Jordan Scientific Society; Class Chaplain, 1, 2, 3, 4; Leader, Student Volunteer Group, 4; President, Y. M. C. A., 4.

"The little Bates man was wonderful, marvelous, courageous, pulsating—all these and more as he passed the last man and sprinted, a winner, to the tape." That's how a Boston writer described Ray's shattering of the two-mile mark. Bates is proud—and lucky—to have as track captain an international champion. A deep sincerity marks all of Ray's acts, whether it be leading a Y. M. meeting or eating a church supper. He's a chap with ideals and the pep to back them up. Perhaps that speed of his will aid him in avoiding some cannibal chieftain intent on "broiled Buker, à la Samoa," when Ray enters his life work in foreign missionary fields.

FRANK ALBERT BUOTE, B.S.

"Benny"

E'en like unto a magnet, he doth draw
Much work unto himself—'tis in good hands.

Born Aug. 4, 1902, Roxbury, Me.; Stephens High School; Military Science Club, 2, 3, 4, Secretary, 4; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, 4, Secretary, 4; Outing Club, Secretary, 4; Ivy Day Speaker; Track Manager, 4; Chemistry Assistant, 4.

"Ha! Ha! 'At's a good one, Pete!" and Benny leans back from a desk cluttered with Outing Club tags, track team placards, orders for pins, calculus examples, and books, while he enjoys a little interlude as Pete plays his banjo. Four years in college have left him the same optimistic ever-ready-to-please chap who came to Bates as a Freshman from Rumford. He's got a great smile and a swell mop of molasses colored hair, qualities guaranteed by Daniel Cupid to get results sometime. He always has a thousand and one little odd jobs to do, and what's more, he does them. Never mind, Benny, this training in looking out for little things may come in handy sometime!

ALOSCO MANSER BURGESS, B.S.

"Al"

I scorn that maid who higher learning seeks,
And find companions where the lights are bright.

Born Jan. 1, 1901, Auburn, Me.; Edward Little High School; Freshman Prize Debate, 1; Class Track, 2, 3, 4; Class Basketball, 4; Varsity Track, 3; Military Science Club, 2, 3, 4; Jordan Scientific Society, 4; Forum, 2; Deutscher Verein, 3.

Al has spent four years at Bates without entering the more or less sacred precincts of Rand, but does that prove anything? Boy, page William Doucette! Given the right crowd and the right orchestra, Al's bashfulness which the co-eds believe is so much a part of him, disappears, and we may observe a sophisticated man of the world, including Auburn, "stepping out" with much esprit and eau de cologne. His friends know him as a quiet worker with a keen sense of the ridiculous, ever ready to burst into raucous guffaws of hearty glee, possessing a keen mind beneath a wavy blond thatch of hair. He affects a Bowery walk and a cynical smile at times, which fools no one as to his complete lack of sophistication!

LLEWELLYN ALLISON BURGESS, B.S.

"Lew"

Thou'lt not win maiden's heart by any Law
Of thy dear Physics, man! Use thou thy arms!

Born Sept. 16, 1900, Rock Falls, Ill.; South High School, Worcester, Mass.; Press Club, 4; Jordan Scientific Society, 4; Physics Assistant, 4; Outing Club, 2, 3, 4; Jordan Scientific Exhibition Committee, 4.

They say that Lew juggles coils, lines, cosines, rates of velocity, and amperes as to the spark plug born. That's all very well, and together with that expansive grin and ingratiating personality, his knowledge is sure to put him on his feet. But in other realms! The laws of speed are forgotten by him when he arrives in the realms of the Coles Philips sex—they say his only really shocking experience occurred in the physics lab—with a temperamental battery. In vain does he attempt to pass himself off as a dashing blade, an uncou' lad fa' the lassies, a wee rascal with a naughty eye. Still waters run deep, but we know Burgess won't get in over his head.

ROLAND JOY CARPENTER, B.S.

"Carp"

He wore about him, like a mantle thrown,
An air of manhood, tinged with youthful strength.

Born Feb. 13, 1899, Patten, Me.; Patten Academy; Freshman Prize Debate; Forum, 2, 3; Military Science Club, 3, 4; Jordan Scientific Society, 4; Manager Baseball, 4; Student Council, 4; Class President, 4.

Carp is popular because he does things on time with no noise, because he's got a personality which seems somehow to embody much of the stuff of which Bates' best products boast. Realization and recognition of his steady, quiet, non-skid ability resulted in his election as Class President in his Senior year; he's had many questions to solve, a number of disputes to settle, and considering the extremely large number of clashing aims and personalities which have arisen, has done remarkably well. Carp has a sly twinkle belying his otherwise cherubic appearance, and has a ruthless and bumpless disposition—very even. His future, in one sense, seems to be cut out for him in one very definite Patten—how about it, Zet?

MILDRED METHYL CARY, A.B.

"Woman's at best a contradiction still."

Born Feb. 1, 1900, Brockton, Mass.; Brockton High; Basketball, 1, 2, 3; Baseball 2nd, 1; Volleyball, 3; Soccer 2nd, 3; Hockey 2nd, 3, 4; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Massachusetts Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Le Petit Salon, 3, 4; Deutscher Verein, 3, 4; Alethea, 3; Mandolin Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Numerals.

Did Mildred ever miss a practice for hockey, volleyball, basketball, soccer, track, or tennis? Not to our knowledge. Even though she has just heaps to do, often more than the rest of us, she can always be relied upon in athletics. That she has been successful may be seen from her record.

Her quiet humor and even temperament have endeared her to those who know her best.

FRANK EDWARD CHAMBERLAIN, A.B.

Yea, verily, this life is much too short
To gain all knowledge from the printed page.

Born Nov. 26, 1892, Portland, Me.; Deering High School.

With arms pressed down and overflowing with weighty tomes, Frank is wont to walk into class five or nine minutes late with a rapt expression of extreme concentration on his face together with a slight dab of shaving cream under one ear, testifying to a hurried completion of an hour's job with the old Ever Ready. He says that the only thing wrong in the world at the present time is the people who compose it. This rather shady Schopenhauer attitude is assumed to intimidate his auditor, and after hurling several more pessimistic shots from his little blue locker, he goes on his way rejoicing. Cheer up, Frank, and lift your eyes heavenward—you'll find the sky is blue, too.

BEATRICE ASTREA CLARK, A.B.

There's in you all that we believe of heaven—amazing brightness, purity and truth—eternal joy, and everlasting love."

Born Jan. 25, 1901, Laconia, N. H.; Laconia High; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4, Captain, 1, 4; Basketball 2nd, 2, 3; Volleyball, 4; Soccer, 2, 3; Enkuklios Board, 1; Athletic Board, 3, 4, Vice-President, 4; Student Government Board; Sophomore Prize Speaking; Seniority; Macfarlane Club, 4; Choir, 1, 2, 3, 4; Glee Club, 1, 2; MIRROR Board, Editor Women's Athletics; New Hampshire Club; Le Petit Salon, 1, 2; Y. W. C. A.; Student Government Council; Entre Nous.

A live wire in every branch of athletics, a keen ear for every class, a proper young mischief maker when the chance offers itself, a dressy little lady for society, and a loyal follower of Cupid is our "Bee," whose size doesn't seem half big enough for her activities. But her heart and wit are big enough and she is our brightest beam of sunshine. Her smile had only one rival, and to avoid any future competition she annexed that one. Now they are both 50 per cent. smilinger.

" 'Tis said that absence conquers love,
But oh, believe it not.
We watched, alas, it's power to prove,
But thou art not forgot."

EARLE AUGUSTUS CLIFFORD, B.S.

"Duffer"

"I'll run the Evil One a goodly race—
A good-ly race! Ha! Ha! The pun is apt!"

Born May 24, 1899, Winthrop, Me.; Winthrop High School; Varsity Track, 3, 4; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, 4; Class Track, 2, 3, 4.

Earle Augustus appears to be a rather quiet, staid gentleman to a casual onlooker; but let this casual observer step into Earle's one-man two-cramp side car and let him observe the Jekyl-Hyde transformation as Earle steps on the gas and with streaming locks dashes about Lewiston with a demoniac expression on his face; our casual friend will have visions of a one-way trip to a better and purer world, but should be solaced by the thought that probably Clif would be present to preside at the obsequies. Yes, Clif is a man of parts—motorcycle parts, Y. M. C. A. activities, electrical fixing, and in the plugging grind of track has proved the underlying grit and strength which lies beneath his quiet personality as does a rich vein of ore beneath its covering.

HELEN AMELIA COOMBS, A.B.

"But not alone in the silken snare
Did she catch her lovely flowing hair,
For tying her bonnet under her chin,
She tied a young man's heart within."

Born Sept. 5, 1900, Lewiston, Me.; Jordan High School; Mandolin Club, 4; Deutscher Verein, 3, 4.

Helen is the premiere danseuse of our class. She always shows the rest of us how to do it at those dances in Chase Hall, and in interpretative dancing she's a scintillating participant. Helen is always busy yet never tired, at least from the way she tosses that bobbed, blond hair we imagine she isn't. Her college work, however, is only of minor importance in comparison with her social activities, which claim all her evenings.

Helen plans to teach and we hope her diminutive size will wield great influence in the academic world.

JOHN DEXTER COOMBS, B.S.

That picture which thou seest within the case
Presents me in an unaccustomed role.

Born Nov. 18, 1897, Lisbon Falls, Me.; Lisbon Falls High; Class Track, 3; Class Hockey, 3; entered with Class of '20.

Coombs of the thoughtful brow and dreamy eyes and crisp, curling brown locks, is a man of deep depths of silence; hence we had to go elsewhere to discover the truth concerning a certain well-known photo showing Deck as a lone male amidst a group of what appears to be part of Ziegfield's peach crop in stage costume. Visions of John leading the high life in New York were dispelled rudely when it was learned that it was simply the girls' basketball team of South Paris High, and that John was head coach in teaching the young Parisiens how to shoot. If silence be golden, John has certainly staked out and filed claim on a bonanza. He doesn't tell all he knows, but we have suspicions that his rank bill speaks for itself, even though Deck will not.

DAVID CROCKETT, B.S.

"Dave"

And if angelic harps play heavenly jazz—
O Death, where is thy sting? I welcome thee!

Born April 6, 1897, Durham, Me.; Edward Little and Lisbon Falls High Schools; Class Track, 1, 2; Varsity Track, 1, 2; Varsity Football, 2, 3; entered with Class of '20; served overseas in 101st Trench Mortar Battery.

The Dave Crockett of old enjoyed blazing new trails through trackless wildernesses; the subject at hand prefers blazing them over the polished surface of the dance hall floor. A close student of vaudeville, his minor has been taken in Map Study, we surmise, while he has already gained his Chair of Education in the balcony of the Empire. Dave is one of those men who entered our class in the Sophomore year after a personally conducted tour through various sections of Europe, and who returned to fit in very neatly; a wide smile spread generously on his round, happy physog seems to be the Keystone of his personality. A quiet, congenial man who did his bit, he is both respected and liked by all who come in touch with the warm glow of comradeship which is his.

RUTH CULLENS, A.B.

"Be thou the rainbow to the storm of life,
The evening beam that smiles the cloud away."

Born Dec. 2, 1900, Steuben, Me.; Groveland High School; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4; Volleyball, 2, 3; Basketball, 2, 3, Captain, 3, Manager, 4; Soccer, 2, 3; Numerals; "B"; Class Vice-President, 1; Prize Speaking, 1; Entre Nous; Y. W. C. A., Vice-President, 3, President, 4; Enkuklios Board, 2; Alethea; Forum; Seniority; Athletic Board, 4; Outing Club Board, 4; Advisory Council, Student Government, 4.

Many a cloud has been smiled away by Ruth's never-failing good cheer. Her life is just one long and exciting list of activities. She spends every minute either doing Y. W. work, or going snow-shoeing, or sewing, or—but what's the use of naming them, when they include everything there is to do? But in spite of her college course, her studies don't seem to have been very seriously affected—Ruth still is taking History and even finds time for Chem. And among all the things she finds to do we hear of no failures, and accordingly we expect for her nothing but successes after college. Keep your pep up to its present pitch, Ruth, and you'll accomplish wonders!

DOROTHEA DAVIS, A.B.

"I like her sweetness,
I like her delicacy,
I like her vivacity,
And I like her silence."

Born June 26, 1900, Rochester, N. H.; Rochester High; Entre Nous; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Spofford Club, 2, 3, 4, Vice-President, 4; Seniority; New Hampshire Club, Vice-President, 3; Outing Club; Ivy Day Speaker; Junior Exhibition; President's Council; MIRROR Board, Literary Editor; Assistant in Public Speaking; Hockey 2nd, 2.

Very quiet and retiring, but quite as good a sport as the best upon occasion. Dot can dramatize anything—and what is more to the point, can do it well. As a matter of fact, she can even say "Gorry, I thought you were the dean!" and have it interpreted as "play acting." When she is oblivious of all her surroundings, and even unconscious of our presence, she is, we feel sure, wandering in strange lands and going through all sorts of queer and interesting experiences. It must be fun to be able to travel so easily and so widely, and to take part in such varied activities. Keep it up, Dot, you'll get heaps more fun out of life than will some of us prosaic folks who haven't much of the ethereal in our natures.

GLADYS INEZ DEARING, A.B.

"The heart to conceive, the understanding to direct, and the hand to execute."

Born April 29, 1900, Scarboro, Me.; Deering High; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4; Volleyball, 2, 3, 4; Baseball, 1; Soccer 2nd, 3; Tennis 2nd, 1, 3; Numerals; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, 4; Secretary-Treasurer of Portland Club, 2, Vice-President, 3, President, 4; Forum, 3, 4; Ramsdell Scientific Society, 3, 4; Vice-President of Class, 3; Ivy Day Speaker; Woman's Editor of Student, 4; Assistant in Public Speaking, 4; President's Council, 3; Student Government Council, 4; Outing Club Board, 4; Class Cheer Leader, 2, 3, 4; Freshman Prize Speaking.

Look at the list above; you wouldn't believe there was another thing to be said, but there is—lots of it. There was never anything on, that she wasn't ready for—a dance, a feed, a party, another club, another play, another team, and a sparkling eye through it all. There may be an aching spot in her heart but it doesn't look that way, and you know "a woman is never so happy as when the man is miserably absent." That may account for such gayety for four years. About the only thing she hasn't made in her career was the choir, but we have often heard her voice raised in song, nevertheless. Whether you go South or West, Glad, we think you'll win.

JOHN FRANCIS DRAKE, B.S.

His form exhuded health and blithesome cheer—
His tongue dripped words of many, many things.

Born August 15, 1897, Lewiston, Me.; Jordan High School; Class Track, 1; Class Football, 3; Class Party Committee, 4; Politics Club, 4; U. S. Army during 1918.

Good nature, imposing figure, and oh! what a line of conversation! compose three outstanding characteristics of this rather rubicund and rotund personage. He worked for Uncle Sam in the recent disturbance, and later traveled way down in the Southwest to teach the li'l Mexicans their English rudiments. Now he is graduated with the best class he was ever in, he freely admits, and is willing to leave travel alone to settle down contentedly in some peaceful New England village where the rattlesnake is minus and Obregon is thought to be a new game. He got so deeply into the tall timber of co-education that he admits he couldn't see the trees for the forest—however, he came out, all right, and we rather envy him,—he has a two years' start on most of us!

KATHLEEN GERTRUDE DREW, A.B.

"A child of our grandmother Eve."

Born Dec. 23, 1900, Littleton, Mass.; Littleton High School; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; Entre Nous; Outing Club; Alethea, 3; Massachusetts Club; Le Petit Salon, 3, 4; Deutscher Verein, 3, 4; Glee Club, 4.

"K" looks like a mild and motherly maiden, but from four years' observation, we should say that a proper little vamp lurks down deep in her heart. Her conquests are not few and we have heard that she treats them rough. She is a fine entertainer and all the dorm parlors know her well. Her mantel-piece is well adorned with pictures of the male specimen and her mem book must be a pretty sight. What is it that gets 'em? Well, a smiling face, a trusting voice, and bright eyes go a long ways. But seriously, she's a high rolling lassie as well, and without Snar and Sister, we guess old '22 would have an ache in his heart.

MARION AGNES DREW, A.B.

"She doeth little kindnesses which most leave undone or despise."

Born April 8, 1902, Littleton, Mass.; Littleton High; Hockey, 3, 2nd, 4; Volleyball, 3, 2nd, 4; Gym Meet; Basketball 2nd, 4; Soccer 2nd, 3; Hiking; Numerals; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Deutscher Verein, Secretary-Treasurer, 4; Entre Nous, 1; Outing Club; Alethea, 3; Le Petit Salon, 3, 4; Class Secretary, 4; Massachusetts Club; Mandolin Club, 4; Ramsdell Scientific Society, 4; Athletic Board, 2.

Queer name—Snar—isn't it? But Snar is a most popular name around the college, just as its owner is a most popular person. Sometimes she's so quiet and studious that if we didn't really know her we wouldn't expect her to be playing some joke on us the next minute. But whatever the joke—and it's ever a new one—she always has a nice way of doing it, and so everyone enjoys it, even the one who is laughed at. Snar works hard and plays hard, and that's a mighty fine combination—one that'll make Snar a favorite anywhere, anytime.

MAURICE LESTER EARLE, A.B.

I'll cultivate a smoothness in my dress,
To catch her fancy by the tailors' art.

Born June 15, 1900, Litchfield, Me.; Litchfield Academy; Freshman Cross Country; Class Track, 2, 3; Varsity Track, 2, 3; Military Science Club, 3, 4.

This smooth looking young man with the polished hair and manners and the slightly quizzical expression fits neatly into any social function whatsoever, though such function may range from the Steam Fitters' Ball to the Senior Hop. He also has a peculiar faculty of taking a cursory glance at his books before midyears and then holding regular seminars in his room, answering any and all questions flung at him by his awed confrères, and meeting his exams with nary a flutter. Maurice is known to a number of social cycles in Lewiston, always, of course, excepting the police department. His biggest regret is that he must part with "Fat" Johnson. His biggest asset is his optimistic refuse-to-worry disposition.

FLORENCE EDNA FERNALD, A.B.

"In whose calm depths the beautiful and pure alone are mirrored."

Born Sept. 6, 1900, Alfred, Me.; Alfred High School; Hockey 2nd, 1, 2, 3; Soccer, 2; Basketball 2nd, 3; Baseball, 1; Tennis 2nd, 2, 3; Entre Nous; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet; Chairman of Publicity, 3; Chairman of Social Service, 4; Enkuklios, Vice-President, 3, President, 4; Student Government Board and Council, 4; Prize Speaking, 1, 2; Glee Club, 1, 2, 3; Choir, 1, 2, 3, 4; Macfarlane Club, 3, 4, Vice-President, 4; Deutscher Verein, 3; Le Petit Salon, 4.

"But why call such a sweet person Floppie?" Oh, we don't know, it came with her and besides, it's the tone we say it in that counts. How serious she can be when French 7 or 8 is worrying her or some problem of Stu. G. is in her mind; how gay when a party is on; how lovely when singing or playing for us; and how tense when a hockey ball is ahead of her stick. Oh, a house with many windows is our Floppie, and every window a big, shining, sunny one.

WILHELMINA A. FIENEMAN, A.B.

"The warmth and freshness of a generous heart."

Born Nov. 9, 1900, Farmington, Conn.; Farmington High School; Soccer, 2, 3, Captain, 2; Hockey 2nd, 2, 3, 4; Basketball, 3; Numerals; Soccer, Manager, 4; Athletic Board, 3, 4; Enkuklios Board, 4; Macfarlane Club, 4; X-tra Club, Vice-President, 3, President, 4; Choir, 4; Glee Club, 4; Student Government Council, 4; Deutscher Verein, 4; Outing Club; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4.

Bobbed hair, roguish eyes, happiness, fun, mischief, and the most infectious giggle you ever heard—that's our care-free, jolly Billie. That is, that's as near to being Billie as we seem capable of putting it into black and white; but with such a vitally alive subject to treat, paper and printer's ink seem so tragically flat and inanimate as to be absolutely impossible. Billie's clothes are always "awfully good looking"—though she says she "hasn't a rag to wear!" Did you ever see her when she didn't look as though she came out of the top bureau drawer—and wasn't simply stunning? Billie sings and dances and has such a good time that joy just plain radiates around her, and you can't get near her without being happier for it.

CLARENCE ALLEN FORBES, A.B.

"Aristotle"

He maketh ye Greek verb to do ye tricks—
"Jump through yon hoop," quoth he—it straightway jumps!

Born Sept. 6, 1901, Colebrook, N. H.; Colebrook Academy; Track Numerals, 3; Cercle Francais, 1; Phil-Hellenic Club, 2, 3, 4, President, 4; Deutscher Verein, 4; Greek Prize, 1; General Scholarship Prize, 1, 2; Latin Prize, 3; Coe Scholarship Prize, 3; Latin Assistant, 2, 3, 4; German Assistant, 4; Phi Beta Kappa.

As a scholar, "Aristotle" stands alone, and we are all glad to see his faithful work rewarded with Phi Beta Kappa honors. We well remember his vivid description of a "caow" some time ago, but times have changed and we hand with profound salaams the black-bound Anabasis to Clarence. He stoops to conquer on co-education fields and, if we mistake not, receives A+ in that much pursued course. To him has been granted the great gift of concentration, be the subject Xenophon or plotting a curve on Chase Hall bowling alleys. Ever see him bowl or play tennis, his old jaw set in lines o' grim determination, or pursue a Latin ode to its lair? Smooth sailing and a bon voyage to him—no mal de le mer for him, which is a poor pun but good common sense.

CARL G. FRENCH, A.B.

"Frenchie"

A pipe to smoke, a novel fit to read,
A pretty girl to kiss—life holds no more!

Born Aug. 10, 1900, Malden, Mass.; Everett High School; College Orchestra, 1, 2, 3; Glee Club, 1, 2; Military Science Club, 3, 4; Macfarlane Club, 2, 3, 4; President, St. Michael's Club, 4; Class Track, 1, 2, 3, 4; Assistant Cheer Leader, 3, 4; MIRROR Board.

Frenchie with his violin, his wavy brown locks, his ever-present book, and sometimes present girl is something of a true Bohemian. His writing ability he hides under a blanket of modesty, but we understand that he wields a clever journalistic pen for a Boston daily. And dressy? Who knows what the latest wrinkle in trousers is to be, the latest vogue in dips, or the niftiest thing in Lewiston in georgette? Friend Carl! A close follower of Y. W. activities, he is to be commended for his interest in such things. We hope to see him in the editor's chair of the Transcript sometime, blue pencil in hand, pipe in mouth, feet on table. Alert, courteous, well-mannered, he is widely and popularly known.

FLORENCE AFTON FROST, A.B.

"Frostie"

"A little work, a little play
To keep us going—and so good-day."

Born April 19, 1900, Lewiston, Me.; Jordan High; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Le Petit Salon; Outing Club; Deutscher Verein; Entre Nous.

No, Florence does not worry all the time, but just about half the time, though she would have us believe that she carries the cares of the world upon her shoulders. But those who know her best say that she can tell mighty funny stories and make the gloomiest person laugh. Although outside interests claim much of Florence's time, yet she's always around when needed. Her cheers at all athletic games, her attendance at Chase Hall and all other college activities, her reliability, win for her many friends.

Florence's ambition is to teach and her ready wit should prove very profitable.

THELMA FULLERTON, A B.

"A rosebud set with little willful thorns."

Born Ellsworth, Me.; Ellsworth High; Baseball 2nd, 1, 2; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4; Volleyball, 4; Soccer, 3; Seniority; Deutscher Verein; French Club; Outing Club; Numerals.

Don't ever let it grow, Ted, it's too cute as it is, and just give it a good shake now and then, to let us know what prosaic-headed, ordinary-looking mortals we are. When, with a hop, skip, and jump, you joined us two years ago, we smiled in anticipation, and we haven't stopped smiling yet. What a lot can be put in a little parcel; what an amount of dramatics, nerve, mischief, and pep in general. Keep it with you, Ted, all your life, and you'll be a big drawing card wherever you go.

GRACE MONROE GEORGE, A.B.

"She hath a keen eye that observeth much."

Born Aug. 13, 1893, Newmarket, N. H. Manchester High; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; New Hampshire Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Choir, 3, 4; Phil-Hellenic, 3, 4; Enkuklics, 1, 2, 3, 4; Outing Club, 2, 3, 4; Deutscher Verein, 4; Glee Club, 3, 4.

Grace is another daughter from old New Hampshire's hills, and she seems to carry with her some of the calm and quiet atmosphere which is a characteristic of those towering piles. Coram Library is a favorite abode of hers, though not always as a temple of book-knowledge does she enter its domain. In choir and glee club, we have heard her mellow tones many times. An observing young lady with a quiet twinkle in her eye, she knows how and when to play, knows the latest about styles of the present and future, and is in turn known and liked by us all.

Lucille Addie Goding, A.B.

"Cille"

She is a woman, therefore may be woo'd;
She is a woman, therefore may be won.

Born 1900, Auburn, Me.; Jordan High; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Mandolin Club, 2, 3, 4, Manager, 4; Deutscher Verein; Le Petit Salon; Entre Nous; Outing Club.

How did Rand Hall ever exist without Cille? We cannot picture anything more cozy and warm than your room with the blue decorations, where everyone goes when she wants sympathy. We're sure you'll be just the wonderfulest teacher ever, for we know who translates our German, Spanish, and French and explains Astronomy to us, and even ventures to elucidate to our benighted intelligence the principles of Education and Co-Education.

Grace Palmer Gould, A.B.

"Be good, sweet maid, and let who will be clever."

Born July 11, 1899, Waterboro, Me.; Lyndon Institute; Basketball 2nd, 1; Hockey 2nd, 3, 4; Soccer 2nd, 3; Choir, 1, 2, 3, 4; Glee Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Entre Nous, 1; Alethea, 2, 3; Seniority, 4; French Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Ivy Day Committee.

Grace's first A No. 1 course was the worst case of flu at the college, this has been followed by A No. 1 standing in every course she has chosen. A very busy lady, with her Geology assistantship, her History work, and her good times; but Grace always and forever has time to be adding bits of embroidery to that store which must, by this time, be assuming gigantic proportions, or to knit a sweater, or crochet a tie. Grace surely is a student, but somehow she always manages to get her studying done in time so that, at the opportune moment, she is ready for whatever turns up,—and this, indeed, is a characteristic worth possessing. Won't you tell some of the rest of us how you do it, Grace?

KATHRYN HANSCOM, A.B.

"Kottie"

"Against the head which Innocence secures,
Insidious Malice aims her darts in vain,
Turned backwards by the powerful breath of Heaven."

Born Sept. 22, 1900, Bethel, Me.; Gould's Academy; Hockey, 2, 3, 2nd, 1; Soccer, 2, 3, Captain, 3; Baseball 2nd, 1; Numerals; Entre Nous, 1; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Deutscher Verein, 3, 4; Le Petit Salon, 1; Enkuklios; Outing Club; Ramsdell Scientific Society, 4; Vice-President, Bates Publishing Association, 3; MIRROR Board, Art Editor.

A clever young person—and obliging, too—and a good pal. If you want a poster for the masquerade or the Bates-in-China-Drive, you'll be sure of one like its maker—full of snap, originality, and just to the point—if you merely mention your desire to Kottie. And if you are discouraged and just want someone to sympathize, well, Kottie is almost as good for you then as when all the world holds is sunshine, and all there is to do is to play around and enjoy it. For three long years Kottie rather neglected the courses offered in co-education. It takes "gip" to really start things!

RUTHERFORD HANSON, A.B.

"As pure in thought as angels are."

Born Jan. 19, 1898, Gorham, Me.; Gorham Normal School; Y. W. C. A.; Portland Club, 2, 3, 4; Deutscher Verein, 3, 4; Enkuklios, 2, 3, 4; Alethea, 2, 3; Outing Club; Student Government, Vice-President, 3, President, 4.

Her days—her weeks in fact—are full of committee meetings—long, monotonous, tiresome affairs, against which almost any other person would rebel. but Ruth, our willing, capable, reliable Ruth, smiles serenely and optimistically—and arranges time for a special meeting! And all this that Stu Gee may work better, and that the girls may be happier. How Ruth finds time to go to classes remains, to us, an unsolved mystery—she alone knows the answer. She wasn't with us Freshman year, so missed that humiliating period—but she has demonstrated how unnecessary it is so effectively that we almost think it could be dispensed with—that if another class like '22 should come along, it might enter in Sophomore capacity!

HELEN JULIA HARRIMAN, A.B.

"For man is a giddy thing, and this is my conclusion."

Born Dresden, Me.; Gardiner High School.

We never saw Helen Harry without a grin on her face, yet she calls herself Calamity Jane. But one acquires a keen sense of humor and true sophistication at a soda fountain, for Grant's demands much of Helen's time. Helen works so much we can't see why she didn't get rich, but doubtless she'll become wealthy eventually.

Her repartee and ready wit cause a welcome break in the monotony of any class. Success to you, Harry!

GEORGIANA COLBY HAYES, A.B.

"In sun and shade the same,
In weal and woe our steady friend."

Born April 13, 1898, Gorham, Me.; Gorham Normal; Y. W. C. A., 2, 3, 4; Enkuklios, 2, 3, 4; Outing Club, 2, 3, 4; Portland Club, 2, 3, 4; Alethea, 2; Deutscher Verein, 3, 4; Seniority, 3, 4; Junior Prize Speaking; Vice-President, Seniority.

Do you know what happened in History class the other day? Ask George—she knows! Her gaze is so lofty she forgets, especially on slippery spots, that what goes up must come down. Our advice to you, George, is simply: "Look down, not up; don't skin your hand!" Her smile is such an essential part of her that it wouldn't be George without it. She's a cheery, jolly, good-humored friend. We predict for her notable success in the realm of finance,—her budget system is her especial pride and joy, and with the able assistance and advice of Prof. Gould she has made a wealthier and a more efficient Bates Y. W. C. A. At the rate you're going, some day you'll be as rich as the Y. W., George! Cheerful prospect, what?

MAUDE IRMA HAYWARD, A.B.

"A friend may well be reckoned the masterpiece of nature."

Born March 3, 1901, Worcester, Mass.; Millbury High School; Hockey 2nd, 1; Y. W. C. A.; Social Service Committee, Y. W. C. A., 2, 3, 4; Macfarlane Club, 4; Seniority; I. C. S. A., 2, 3, President, 3; Alethea, 2, 3; Le Petit Salon, 1, 2, 3, 4, Secretary, 2; Phil-Hellenic Club, 2, 3, 4; Glee Club, 4; Mandolin Club, 3; Massachusetts Club, 1, 2, 3, 4, Vice-President, 2; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, 3; Enkuklios.

She looks like a little Puritan maid, studies like a model child, works like a sister of mercy and makes lasting friends like a lovely book does. We never saw her cross, and if she ever did happen to be, we are sure it must have been righteous indignation. Miss Willard loves her along with the rest of us, and why shouldn't she? We recommend her as an embryo pastor's assistant down at the Universalist next year, only, Maudie, remember that pastors' assistants never laugh in church and are supposed to show a most proper respect for all the choir.

LILLI ELLA HERLING, A.B.

"Icci"

"But there's more in me than thou understand'st."

Born Jan. 13, 1901, Riza, Russia; Jordan High; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Le Petit Salon, 3; Deutscher Verein; Seniority.

Lilli attended Y. W. one night and learned to "follow the gleam" which led her right up to the Sun. Indeed, she has been on the staff of the Lewiston Sun for two years, and will become a full-fledged journalist after Commencement. We might suggest that she go into dramatics, for it will be a long time before we forget Yungslanti's "Mother, I wanna go to bed. Boo-hoo!" Strict attention to the business at hand does not prevent her from knowing how to have a good time when work is done. If keeping young consists in maintaining a bubbling spring of laughter and a clear-eyed vision looking towards the worthwhile things in life, then we believe Icci will never grow old.

DOROTHY HOLT, A.B.

"With wise instinct Nature seems
To harmonize her wide extremes,
Linking the stronger with the weak,
The haughty with the soft and meek."

Born Jan. 15, 1900, Jersey City, N. J.; Nutley High; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4; Soccer, 2, 3; Tennis, 1, 3; Macfarlane Club, 3, 4; Choir, 2, 3, 4; Leader of Glee Club, 4; X-tra Club, 2, 3, 4; Deutscher Verein, 4; Y. W. C. A.; Entre Nous; Outing Club, 2, 3, 4.

Many a time Dottie has cheered old Bates with her lovely songs—in chapel, at Y. W. and the favored few at Macfarlane. And as a result of her efforts we now have a splendid Girls' Glee Club in working order. Dottie is in for every type of amusement Bates offers, as she hails from the town far-famed for its auto rides and excitement! By the way, Dot, wasn't there something about an automobile here Freshman year? Dot plans to do social service work, and we predict a wonderfully bright future for the world. We believe in you, Dot,—in your willingness to work for a good cause, your perseverance, and your ability to get the desired results.

DORIS ELOISE HOOPER, A.B.

With a winking eye for his battle cry."

Born May 19, 1901, Raymond, Me.; Gorham High School; Baseball, 1; Basketball 2nd, 1, 2; Volleyball, 1, 2, 3; Hockey 2nd, 2, 3; Soccer 2nd, 3; Entre Nous; Alethea, 2, 3, Secretary-Treasurer, 3; Phil-Hellenic Club, 2, 3, 4; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; Portland Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Outing Club, 2, 3, 4.

A distant man was wise to fall for eyes like those, and as long as postage stamps are cheap, it's all right. Absence makes his heart grow fonder, no doubt, and it doesn't seem to interfere with a happy college life. We are very sure she will be true blue, for she is one of the rare birds who has kept one college wife for four long years. Isn't that a hopeful forecast? Bates would hardly know how to get along without the Hoopers, Dot not being the first to enliven us. They turn out well, too.

FREDRICA ILSLEY INESON, A.B.

"Her eccentricities are the effervescence of genius."

Born May 28, 1900, South Freeport, Me.; North Yarmouth Academy; Hockey 2nd, 1, 3, 4; Entre Nous; Enkuklios; Spofford Club, 2, 3, 4; Spofford Play, 3, 4; Portland Club; Secretary, I. C. S. A.; Y. W. C. A., Social Service Committee; Outing Club; Freshman Declamations; Prize Winner, Junior Orations; Literary Editor, Bates Student; Student Government Council; MIRROR Board.

Hail to the best speaker of 1922! A person of moods and fancies, of dreams and visions,—a thinker, but a doer as well. By the way, did you ever, in the wee small hours, in a dimly lighted room, hear her tell of the fearful and fantastic experiences through which she and her friends have passed? If you've not, you have a thrill in store for you, and it would be useless for the rest of us to try to explain the feelings which we have had. We can merely say that even the most prosaic and doubtful breathes more easily when the lights are turned on, and the weird and flitting shadows have vanished. We're sure, Fred, that your spark of genius will light your way to success.

ELWOOD FREMONT IRELAND, B.S.

A man of mettle, he—in him the gods
Combined much "brass" with voice of golden tone.

Born May 13, 1898, Corinna, Me.; Jordan High School; Choir, 1, 2, 3, 4; Athletic Council, 1, 4; Musical Clubs, 1, 2, 3, 4, Manager, 3, 4; Leader, Glee Club, 4; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, 4, Committee Member, 4; Tennis Team, 1, 2, 3; Assistant in Biology, 3, 4.

Here is one of the happiest young men who ever sang an indigo note. We believe he'd laugh at his own funeral, if given a chance. And that swelling baritone, with its rich tones, which has rolled forth on so many Glee Club trips and college functions! And that Scotch kiltie costume worn on a certain occasion! Hoot, mon, will we forget them soon? The bluff heartiness, the genial personality of Ireland have won him many friends, and his excellent voice has won him no little popularity, but it is as Dr. Ireland that he intends to be known later. Maybe he'll sing his patients to sleep with the "Ether Rag," but let's hope they don't waken to "Those Angelic Blues."

CLEORA MARGUERITE JACKSON, A.B.

"Do you not know I am a woman?
When I think, I must speak."

Born May 28, 1900, Auburn, Me.; Edward Little High; Hockey 2nd, 2; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Entre Nous; Town Girls' Committee, 3; Outing Club, 2, 3, 4; Seniority, 3, 4; Student Government, 4.

Cleo is always looking for fun and a good time. Hence those beaming eyes and smiling lips. And how she can play the piano; we dance, dream, laugh, or cry at the caprice of her fingers. It is a wonder to us that such a live girl as she, loves a dead language like Latin; it is more consistent to love a live man—So be it!

WILLIAM GURNEY JENKINS, B.S.

He felt a kinship with the great out-doors—
And found his pleasures 'neath the open sky.

Born Aug. 14, 1898, Hartford, Conn.; Hartford Public High School; Class Track, 1, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Track, 2, 3, 4; Manager Hockey, 4; Macfarlane Club, 4; Politics Club, 4; Board of Directors, Outing Club, 2, 3, 4.

If Alger were to write a book on Jenk, he would probably call it "Ozone Bill, or The Rise and Fall of a Skier." He is the original fresh air man, is Gurney, and the thriving condition of the Outing Club owes much of its vigor to his efforts. He goes on the principle that there is safety in a versatility of interests, always excepting, of course, those nearest the auricular organ. His classmates know him as a man of good judgment, dry humor, even temper, and ready smile. Is it a trip to Mt. Washington or a hair raising ski-jump to be negotiated? Gurney is the man to break the path and, sometimes, his neck, nearly. Those small creases in his forehead are not caused by worry—simply new "wrinkles" for the Outing Club carnival.

AURIE IVAN JOHNSON, A.B.

Look thou beyond the clouds! The world is young
And life is good—it's easy, man, to smile!

Born Dec. 19, 1898, Antioch, Cal.; Mount Hermon and Everett High Schools; Freshman Prize Debate; Freshman Prize Speaking; Sophomore Prize Speaking; Sophomore Prize Debate; Class Baseball, 2; Class Football, 2; Class Hockey, 1, 2, 3; Class Basketball, 2, 3, 4; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, 2, 3; Y. M. C. A. Student Secretary, 2; Debating Council, President, 4; Varsity Debater, 2, 3, 4; Politics Club, 3, 4, President, 4; Outing Club, Board of Directors, 4; Mount Hermon Club; Assistant in History, 4; Assistant in Geology, 4; Delta Sigma Rho.

Aurie has certainly had a full four years since the days of the S. A. T. C. He has gained a rep along forensic lines, increased the knowledge of many of us on parliamentary law, steamed merrily along the track in Railroad's courses, skipped on two cylinders in Monie's game of authors, and taken an intensive course in co-education which will never lead to a bachelor's degree, however. By reason of a quondam reserve, Aurie is classed by some as belonging to the crustaceans, but many times we have seen that barrier drop and Aurie's dark surrounding nebulous cloud is seen to have the silver lining of fellowship and sympathy with the proleteriat—of which most of us are a part.

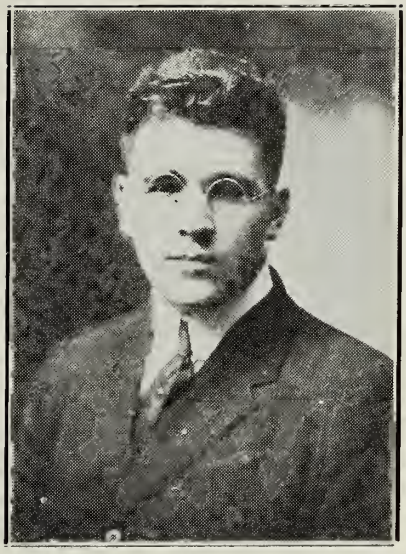
DOROTHY ALBINA JUDKINS, A.B.

"Dot"

"Zealous, yet modest; innocent, though free;
Patient of toil; serene amidst alarms."

Born May 17, 1899, Lisbon, Me.; Lisbon Falls High; Y. W. C. A.; Mandolin Club, 3, 4; Enkuklios; Entre Nous; Outing Club.

"Men of few words are the best men." So this is one of '22's best. Dot is the quiet, unassuming, demure little one of our class. She actually enjoys Latin Comp and never was known to say "Unprepared." Her chief ambition in life is to be near Cille and ask her advice.



JOHN JANVARI KASSAY, A.B.

"Casey"

No, not a Red nor Socialist am I—
Not Red—but a pale pink, if aught at all.

Born May, 1894, Hastings, Penna.; American International College; College Choir, 2, 3, 4; Y. M. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4.

The imposing figure of ol' John Kassay has loomed among us for four years, genial, even-tempered, reminding one of those good-natured monks of old, broad as to mind and so forth. John is a real scholar and commands a knowledge of two or five languages; he is busy, for outside of his college duties, he is pastor of a small flock at Lisbon Falls. His room is filled with rows and rows of great tomes on subjects dear to the heart of a theolog; John must know human nature from Adam to Eve and back, which would seem to cover nearly everything. As a minister, he must have got the habit of marrying, for the germ matrimonicus bit him severely, and he is very happily married, stealing a wedding march, as 'twere, on the rest of us.

THOMAS FRANCIS KELLEY, A.B.

"Tom"

"Mistakes? Why, sure, I've made 'em!
Where's the fun
In ossifying in a godly mold?"

Born Jan. 27, 1901, Winslow, Me.; Gardiner High; Varsity Football, 2, 3, 4, Captain, 4; Class Basketball, 2, 3; Class Hockey, 1, 2, 3; Class Baseball, 1, 2; Cercle Francais, 3; Varsity Club.

Tom is known from Bar Harbor to Old Orchard as a rollicking two-fisted mixer with a ready Irish tongue and a flashy grin; his acquaintance among the stream-line sex is unlimited, but during the Junior year Tom tripped, stumbled, reached vainly for assistance from a nearby sapling, and "fell" with a sickening thud on the steps of Rand, never to regain his sense of equilibrium. His walking-beam shoulders have many times ploughed through the line for gain on gain; as a manager of dances before the present regime, he was a marvel of efficiency and shirt-sleeve diplomacy; we all know the genial Tom, some for better, some for worse, but it is given to but one to know and take him both ways.

LAWRENCE DUSTIN KIMBALL, A.B.

"Kimmy"

A cider jug, a pack of cards—and thou
Singing beside me in the Monastery!

—Rubaiyat of Omar Cayenne.

Born Jan. 4, 1901, Bethel, Me.; Gould's Academy; Managing Editor, Bates Student; Class Track, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Track, 3, 4; Cross Country, "B", 3, 4, Member Maine Championship Team, 3, 4; Phil-Hellenic Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Politics Club, 3, 4, Vice-President, 4; Deutscher Verein, 3, 4, President, 4; Choir, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Club; Assistant in Geology, 4.

Here is another of that clan which does much and says little, class meetings excepted. In the heart-breaking grinds of cross country and two-mile, plugging away and landing always with the leaders, Kim has shown many times his old grit. In the heart-breaking episodes inseparably linked with Bates and coeducation, Kimmy has kept plugging along, and here, too, has finally landed with the leaders. He has a calliope bass, peculiarly suited to Spanish ditties. Though he is a Phil-Hellene, we fear not this Greek bearing gifts, and memories of cider and apples linger yet, as do memories of the broad grin, the hearty friendliness, the admiration for his grit, all a part of the genial steady-going personality of a strong man.

ROSALIA EDGECOMB KNIGHT, A.B.

"Sailor! Sailor! Bully for Sailor! Sailor! Sailor! Rah!"

Born Oct. 19, 1900, Turner Center, Me.; Leavitt Institute; Hockey, 1, 2, 3; Captain, Volleyball, 3, Volleyball, 2, 3, 4; Basketball, 1, 2, 3; Baseball, 1; Soccer, 2, 3; Hiking, 4; Track, 1, 3; Tennis, 1, 3, Captain, 1; Numerals; "B;" Alethea; Enkuklios; Entre Nous; Y. W. C. A.; Outing Club; Le Petit Salon.

Our star athlete, we hand her all the medals. From her first game Freshman year, through to the last moment, what a reliance we have felt when Sailor was in the game. And she has been in every game, tennis, hockey, basketball, baseball, volleyball, soccer, track, and regular gym. You might think, with so many sports, that she put them first and did nothing else, but, on the contrary, she is a persevering student and doesn't let all those sports interfere with her other work at all. A good pal, and a fast little fighter, eager to make friends and always pleasant, we're with you, Sailor!

MAUDE ADELIA LAURENCE, A.B.

"I have heard of the lady, and good words went with her name."

Born Dec. 20, 1899, Lewiston, Me.; Jordan High; Mandolin Club, 2, 3, 4; Glee Club, 4.

Here is the only girl of our acquaintance who confesses that she loves to dig in the dirt and get her hands dirty. But we forgive her anything when we hear her musical laugh and melodious soprano. And when she looks up at you with those sparkling brown eyes, and her curly hair all awry, your heart just gives one great bound and you realize why everyone likes Maude.

P. E. OSCAR LESIEUR

"Pete"

Why worry what tomorrow brings? Today
Is here—and now's the time for song and jest.

Born Lewiston, Me., 1899; Stephens High School, Rumford; Varsity Tennis, 2, 3; Class Hockey, 2, 3, 4; Cercle Francais, 2, 3; Macfarlane Club, 2, 3; Mandolin Club, 3, 4, Leader, 4; Varsity Club; "B."

The one sure sign of approaching spring for the last four years has been the removal of the ol' Davis Cup racquet from its winter mothballs by Pete, and subsequent wild flourishes as he limbers up his snowbound muscles for another season on the courts. Pete's interests and hobbies are many and widely varying—from "shooting" a class party with his faithful graflex as he sits perched high in a tree to leading a mandolin club with graceful motions of his undulating frame. He makes—and keeps—friends easily; with a wealth of inherent ability in a number of things, with a suavity and smile which brings him friends galore, Pete the immaculate "carries on" with the best wishes of every member of the class.

DWIGHT EVELETH LIBBY, A.B.

"Lib"

He bore upon his cheek the flush of youth—
Yet wrote with phrase mature in pleasing style.

Born Aug. 12, 1900, West Poland, Me.; Hebron Academy; Bates Student Board, 1, 2, Debating Editor, 3; Freshman Prize Debate; Class Treasurer, 2; Mandolin Club, 4; Press Club, President, 4; Spofford Club, 2, 3, 4; Forum, 2, 3; Outing Club, 2, 3, 4; Politics Club, 4; MIRROR Board.

A loyal Spoffordite, a clever journalist, a humorist of some caliber—about a thirty-two—and a dahlia in the fields of Romance are a few of Lib's accomplishments. His Student work and his writing as correspondent for a local paper mark him as a clever interviewer and born reporter. His mournful eyebrows have a piquant touch particularly appealing to the feminine eye. His keen observations bear fruit in burlesques of people and things, some of which may appear later in a best seller. He is a great manager for parties, and quite a cook in his own right. Perhaps in future years we will see our frailties, our foibles, and strong points mirrored in Lib's novels. 'Eres 'opin'.

IZETTA ELIZABETH LIDSTONE, A.B.

"No life
Can be pure in its purpose and strong in its strife
And all life not be purer and stronger thereby."

Born July 19, 1901, East Corinth, Me.; Patten Academy; Hockey, 1, 2, 4; Volleyball, 2, 3, 4, Captain, 2; Soccer, 4; Basketball 2nd, 3; "B"; Phil-Hellenic, 2, 3, 4, Vice-President, 3, Secretary-Treasurer, 4; Choir, 2, 3, 4; Mandolin and Glee Clubs, 2; Macfarlane Club, 3, 4, Secretary-Treasurer, 4; Ivy Day Speaker; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, 3, 4; Vice-President of Class, 4; Student Government, Board and Council, 4; Seniority; Ramsdell Scientific Society, 4; Athletic Board, 2; Outing Club Board, 3, 4; Girls' Song and Cheer Leader, 4; Geology Assistant, 4.

Just glance at the list of activities enumerated above, then add a good many that aren't there, and you'll have an idea of Zet; for, of course, the printed list includes only what she has accomplished in her official capacity,—outside that come such things as co-education team, 1, 2, 3, 4; vocal solo at concert at Leeds Junction, 4; and—well, she considered trying out for the heavyweight team, 4, but her manager vetoed the plan. Then there are many more things worthy of mention—her ability, her conscientiousness, squareness, pep.

MARY ELIZABETH LITTLE, A.B.

"Her house is builded upon honor, walled with kindliness, and windowed with happiness."

Born May 28, 1900, Topsfield, Mass.; Medford High; Hockey, 1; Y. W. C. A.; Entre Nous; Outing Club; Class Secretary, 2; Secretary-Treasurer, Student Government, 3; Student Government Council, 3, 4; Student Government Board, 4; Junior Exhibition; Treasurer Enkuklios, 4; Massachusetts Club, President, 4; Seniority, 4; MIRROR Board.

Betty, sprite of mischief, excitement, delight, and laughter; Elizabeth, woman of responsibility, and thought, and love; Lib, daughter of Saturday, practically headed—there, what more could you want. Betty is our '22 girl, the spirit of the class name; we wish there were more like her. Stu. G trusts her with a dorm of questionable characters, the dining room trusts her not to seat two rivals side by each, and fair Auburn trusts her with some of its future hope. If any of the '22 girls ever becomes beloved dean of this institution, we'll bet on Betty. Oh, say, Betty, what ever compensated you for Hig? And you do believe in the law of compensations, don't you? P. S. Why is a divan? Ans. Ask Betty.

DORRIS LONGLEY, A.B.

"She moves a goddess and she looks a queen."

Born Oct. 9, 1900, Norway, Me.; Norway High; Entre Nous; Hockey 2nd, 1; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; Y. W. Cabinet, 4; I. C. S. A., Treasurer; Student Government Board, 3, 4; Outing Club; Seniority, 3, 4, President, 4; Le Petit Salon, 2, 3, 4; Student Government Council, 4.

Rand Hall may well be proud of its house Senior for 1921-22—tall, stately, and splendid in her dignity; lofty, fine and beautiful in her ideals and her gracious manner. We dorm girls welcomed Dot back in the fall of '21, after her year off campus, rejoicing that we again were to have all of her time that Aurie could spare to us,—and our happiness has not lessened during the year. Dot takes life seriously, but without allowing her fun to be spoiled in the process, for even if living is a serious business, it's an extremely glorious one, and Dot makes the most of the joy of it. One of her greatest charms lies in the fact that she likes folks, and is interested in their interests, ready to do all in her power to accentuate the happinesses that come their way.

GRACE HAZEL LUCE, A.B.

"Even her faults incline to virtue's side."

Born Sept. 27, 1899, Hallowell, Me.; Hallowell High; Basketball 2nd, 1, 2; Hockey 2nd, 1; Hockey, 2; Y. W. C. A.; Entre Nous; Ramsdell Scientific Society, Vice-President, 3, President, 4; Seniority; Student Government Council; Mathematics Assistant, 4.

Hazel has always been influential throughout her college course, and we wonder what would have happened to the Math and Physics departments without her—especially during the last year or two. We all appreciate the thousand and one little ways in which she has helped us—partly by being a good friend to each one, in her own quiet way, and partly because since she has "set springs to catch Woodcocks" she has been able to accomplish such infinitely valuable things as getting the lights repaired when they go out at dinner-time, and having the bells kept in order. It means a lot to have a friend who's never too busy to stop a minute just to be friendly.

LEROY CLARK LUCE, B.S.

He well might pose for Grecian god of old,
Superbly muscled, and divinely fair!

Born June 5, 1900, Lexington, Me.; Maine Central Institute; Varsity Football, 1, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Track, 1, 2, 3; Class Football, 2; Class Basketball, 2, 3, 4; Class Hockey, 1, 2, 3; Class Track, 1, 2; Varsity Club; Athletic Council.

Lucey is a handsome rubicund chap who exhales an atmosphere of Broadway, rather than Lexington, Me. As an all-around athlete, Luce has made a name for himself in track, basketball and football; we well remember when his brawny arm shot the discus over the Bowdoin baseball back-stop on Whittier Field, winning a first place; Lucey is in the habit of "putting things over" in other fields, also, and shakes a frothy test-tube in Hedge lab as well as a lanky limb in Auburn Hall. To sum up in the heated phraseology of Carl Rounds, "Your athletic prowess, your spirit, your great, big, true-hearted good-fellowship are distinctive." Distinctive is the word, and Luce has the best wishes of us all for distinction and success.

DORIS ELLA MANSER, A.B.

"I shall ne'er be 'ware of mine own wit
Till I break my shins against it."

Born March 2, 1900, Lewiston, Me.; Edward Little High School; Baseball, 1; Basketball, 3; Hockey, 3, 4; Basketball 2nd, 1; Numerals; Y. W. C. A., 4; Enkuklios; Outing Club; Deutscher Verein, 3, 4.

If Doris Ella were a man, she would be an engineer! For how well she does manage house parties, dancing parties, German club, and even Clarence. And wit! No one ever cracked a joke that Doris did not better. Indeed, she is a shining light in everything that she attempts, whether it be basketball, hockey, tennis, or whatnot. Let's hope her career as a housewife will be as successful.

ALEXANDER ELIAS MANSOUR, A.B.

"Alec"

The mystic glamour of his sire's land
Lay brooding, dormant, in his fringéd eyes.

Born Jan. 26, 1899, Aitha, Syria; Jordan High School.

Alex is a jack of all trades. Agent for all sorts and conditions of wearing apparel, a carpenter both rough and de luxe, a thinker both surface and subway, not to mention overhead, and a pretty good mixer is Alex. To few is it given to know the real Alex, who is something of an Epicurean, deeply sympathetic, knowing many phases of life from experience and observation, always ready with a helping hand where he can be of aid, a pretty good judge of men and things, a dreamer and idealist combined with a rather keen type of practicality. He is also the original faux pas gent and admits that his cheer leading days are over. He promises to shine before long in Dr. Britan's "Polished Dome" classes.

HAROLD WINFRED MANTER, A.B.

He uttered weighty thoughts on womankind—
With scanty knowledge of the subtler sex.

Born June 18, 1898, Anson, Me.; Madison High; Scholarship Prize, 1, 3; Sophomore Prize Essay; Junior Exhibition; Spofford Club, 2, 3, 4; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, 4; Forum, 3; MIRROR Board; Assistant in Biology, 3, 4; Phi Beta Kappa.

Harold's college career has had a versatility rather remarkable in its widespread activity. He is a clever sketch artist, chemist, philosopher, keen student in all branches of midnight oil sports, writer, and something of a misogynist. Long and involved discussions on Socrates, Lenine, individual rights, etc., are as ham and eggs to Manter—he devours them all voraciously. As a loyal prop of Spofford, his contributions have ranged from jingles to weird Poesque tales. He is a shark in Dr. Britan's classes. However, Manter shuns co-education, and from his aloofness watches us poor mortals with a grin. His aversion to the powder puff sex shows him to be deeply simple or deeply subtle—we are inclined to the latter belief.

EARLE CHARLES MACLEAN, B.S.

"Mac"

What! Smile and smile and be a villain, still?
Nay! Smile and be a friend—that be my creed!

Native born of Everett, Mass.; Everett High; Student Council, 3, 4, Vice-President, 1; President, Athletic Association, 4; Class Treasurer, 3; Ivy Speaker; Cheer Leader, 3, 4; Outing Club, Board of Directors, 3, 4; Chase Hall Administration, 2, 4; A. A. Council, 4; President, Parker Hall Association, 4; Commons Committee, 4; Forum, 3; Military Science, 2, 3, 4; Politics Club, 4.

As one of the most popular men who ever stepped onto the campus, Mac has remained since his Freshman year the same upright, genial, and straightforward chap which first impressions led us to believe he was. He floats through classes nonchalantly, even as Ivory soap in the wash basin, though Mac is more than 99 94-100 pure, so comparisons must cease here. He is an excellent mixer and a leader by reason of the clean-cut, fine personality which is his; his smile will stick long in our memory—likewise his ability to see both sides of a question and to remain friends with both parties, thereby carrying off the fencing championship. A true blue '22 man, his is the real spirit of class and college loyalty.

FRANCES LYDIA MINOT, A.B.

"Age is a matter of feeling, not of years."

Born Dec. 3, 1902, Belgrade, Me.; Belgrade High; Entre Nous; Alethea, Vice-President, 2; Seniority, 3, 4, Secretary-Treasurer, 4; Le Petit Salon, 1, 2, 4; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Ivy Ode, 3; Press Club, 4; Outing Club; Assistant in French, 3, 4; Assistant in Spanish, 4; MIRROR Board.

Most of the time you manage pretty well, Frank, when it comes to feeling ahead of your years. In fact, we know that many in our own class actually don't know how few those years are. Did you ever hear about the time Frank ate 14 bananas in a row? Well, even then He ate one more—and got the fudge! Frances says, "Nothing makes me so mad as to be laughed at," and we don't know of anybody who has had the opportunity to laugh at her much—most of us ordinary mortals are too busy admiring her—her work in Seniority, the ease with which she holds our attention at Y. W. meetings, her knowledge (which Prof. Gould doesn't appreciate, but which is highly valued by Lala and several others) and most of all her loveable manner, and her cheery "humanness."

LOLA VELMA MITCHELL, A.B.

"Strong and wholesome, merry and gay,
A girl you might love any day."

Born July 2, 1899, Litchfield, Me.; Litchfield Academy; Hockey 2nd, 4; Baseball, 1; Sophomore Prize Debate; Forum, 2, 3, 4; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Ramsdell Scientific Society, 4; Journal Scientific Club; Alethea, 3; Outing Club; Assistant in Public Speaking, 4.

Her favorite saying is "Oh, don't you just adore Pom?" and all her spare hours are spent in the lab with one eye on a mud-puppy and the other on the lookout for Pom. But she is not the first one to have this crush, so it doesn't trouble him any. Another crush is on Dr. Finnie. And there are more, oh many more, not so public. Lola looks very steady, but there are rumors that she has to count them on the fingers of both hands and that she has had more than one demerit for infringement of calling hours. But then you can't expect a fellow to sit on the steps while waiting for the 11 o'clock car, can you? Horace Greeley was thinking of Lola when he said "Go West," and she is only passing away time till she can get there. Is it to earn fabulous wealth or to capture a cowboy? She's capable of either.

MARTHA VIRGINIA MIXER, A.B.

"True and tender, and brave and just,
That man might honor and woman trust."

Born 1899, Norway, Me.; Norway High; Y. W. C. A.; Entre Nous; Enkuklios; Outing Club; Forum; Enkuklios Board, 4; Sophomore Prize Debate; Junior Exhibition; Ivy Day Speaker; Seniority; Reader for Glee Club.

No, there are none like her, and we are sorry. We need more of just that kind. Sometimes a mixture of a honey sweet child and a thoughtful idealist; next day a marching crusader, and the next, an original young Bolshevist. Remember her ethics when you sat in the balcony at chapel; remember the speed with which she covered Frye and Main streets for three years; remember the pep of room 13; and last but not least, remember the devotion to Pa Gould week after week. Her study of the human specimen has been quite frequent and at times intense, but never very serious. Her heart is still in just the right spot and she is what most of '22 votes a real chum.

CLIFFORD PHILLIP MONOHON, A.B.

"Monny"

A subtle touch of artistry was his—
A man of moods—not old—again, not young.

Born Dec. 2, 1897, Portland, Me.; Deering High; Deutscher Verein, 4.

It's the mark of a very congenial and pleasant personality, the ability of merging into one's surroundings and becoming an essential part of dorm life in a strange institution in one's Senior year; Monty has accomplished this little thing beyond a doubt, and Roger Bill is sure to attest the truth of the statement. But he is not especially interested in girls, he says; however—he claims that as objects for study they're all right in their way; however—he says his tastes run to literature, good music, languages, and ash blondes. Lawdy! We've given him away! Seriously, his comrades deem him one of those unobtrusive, observant, clear thinking, and appreciative personalities which have unobtrusive but none the less efficient methods of arriving at a given point in a given time.

MAYNARD WEBSTER MOULTON, B.S.

He wore a sort o' half-smile on his face—
The Master of the Kidding Club was he.

Born Oct. 11, 1899, Rockland, Me.; Edward Little High School; Class Baseball, 1, 2; Class Basketball, 3, 4; Class Football, 2; Varsity Football, 2, 3, 4; Class Marshal, 3; Chairman, Ivy Hop Committee; Treasurer, Varsity Club, 2; Varsity Club, 2, 3, 4; Musical Clubs, 2, 3, 4; Class Marshal, 4.

When Maynard gets going, anything in front of him must give way. We remember him, taut as a steel spring, "all set" last fall during a certain football game, hurling himself again and again down the field in a heroic one-man effort to snatch victory from defeat. We remember him as the demon xylophonist, who swung his head and his hammers with a professional fling which pulled the natives of Hingham and Topsfield out of their seats as he wound up with a wooden chord in a slightly minor key. He's one of the regular gang, a hard fighter, a clean sportsman, a man who can be counted upon to carry the real spirit of Bates wherever he goes—an American sportsman and gentleman in every sense of the word.

GEORGE NAIMAN, B.S.

"Jack"

" 'Tis not for me, the neat and pretty smile—
I'll grin a man-sized grin or none at all!"

Born Jan. 22, 1901, Lowell, Mass.; Gardiner High; Manager, Class Football, 3; Deutscher Verein.

"Jack" Naiman has proved himself to be one of those unobtrusive personalities with the faculty of slipping through college with no great noise, except it be the crash of broken dishes as Jack makes his first false step at a certain down-town café where he's a man-of-all-work. When he's not there, he is giving Prof. Lawrence some inside info on how to round out his seminar course. Like most true sons of Gardiner he waves a graceful dancing pump and in the mazes of Terpsichorean art he sails onward with the grace of a swooping swan, or words to that effect. His combination of hard work and exceptionally good nature is sure to make that greatest of goals, true contentment, within easy reach for Jack, old boy.

KATHERINE ELIZABETH O'BRIEN, A.B.

"There's many a bright, bright eye, they say, but none so bright as thine."

Born April 10, 1901, Amesbury, Mass.; Deering High School; Hockey, 3, 4; Volleyball, 2, 3, 4, Captain, 4; Soccer, 3; Hiking, 4; Numerals; Enkuklios; Entre Nous; Spofford, 3, 4; Freshman Scholarship Prize; Portland Club; Macfarlane Club, 3, 4; Ramsdell Scientific, 4; Alethea, 2, 3, President, 3; Choir, 4; Glee Club, 4; Seniority; Deutscher Verein; Ivy Ode; Bates Student Board, 2, Alumni Editor, 3; President's Council, 3; Outing Club.

Math., music, and muses are quite a load for one young brain to hold. But then to "K" they're just like play, because her heart is bold. She tries to reduce but what's the use, she isn't a bit too stout. With dancing and gym, no time to get thin, we see her scurry about. No time for a man, she puts on a ban, and makes us a good little friend. Good appetite, wealth and the same happy health, is the wish we forever will send.

ALICE RUTH PARSONS, A.B.

"A mind earnest, clear, profound;
Bestowing with a glad unthrift
Its sunny light on all around."

Born Aug. 29, 1900, Wilton, Me.; Hallowell High; Hockey 2nd, 1, 3; Soccer 2nd, 3; Gym Meet; Entre Nous; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Le Petit Salon, 1, 2, 4; Deutscher Verein, 3, 4; Ramsdell Scientific Society, 3, 4, Secretary, 4; Outing Club.

Alice will, we expect, disclaim the "profound." In self-defense we feel bound to state that she disclaims a "mathematical mind"—but she is completing her fourth year of College Math! Al is tiny, but she gets there—in studies, in good times, and in such things as making chocolate cakes, while she's home over the week-end, to bring back to us less-fortunates. We can imagine Alice the awe-inspiring and austere head of the math department in some high school next year, training up the young hopefuls. Be gentle with them, Al,—remember they're infantile enough to account for much—they'll improve, they're bound to, under your care!

CARL PENNY, B.S.

A glint of recklessness within his eye
Belied the classic calm upon his face.

Born Oct. 11, 1898, Truro, Mass.; Saugus High School; Class Baseball, 1; Class Hockey, 2, 3; Manager Track, 1, 2; Manager Football, 4.

An excellent mixer and all-round popular man, Carl easily shook off the dignity which lay upon him as a sergeant in the old S. A. T. C. days and entered into many phases of campus life with zeal. He appears to be a man's man with the facility of getting along rather well with the magazine-cover sex. His cameo profile lends itself readily to female impersonations, and as a Scotch lassie with braw bonnie knees, he wins the MacTavish curling irons. He already has a fine record of a year's work well done at Westbrook, and the class is glad to have, graduated in its ranks, a man who has thus proved himself. "Let us pray" that he will keep up the good work.

CLIFTON TODD PERKINS, A.B.

"Perk"

"He seeks the secrets of the healing herbs—
And wields a mean and subtle hand at whist!"

Born Jan. 20, 1901, Auburn, Me.; Farmington and Rochester, N. H, High Schools; Class Track, 3, 4; Varsity Track, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Cross Country, 3, 4; Forum, 1, 2; Jordan Scientific Society, 4; News Editor, Student, 3; Outing Club, Board of Directors, 2.

Perk is a distinct and likable personality, amiable, with a very real ambition, surging 'neath his weskit, to be a doctor. He bears in his eye a mixture of a crafty gleam and a glint o' humor—and that combination of craft and sense of humor should help to smooth many of the bumps on his way to success in the field of pills—and bills. He has formed for four years an integral and essential part of the Roger Williams gang, and his attenuated frame, wide grin, and pipe of Herculean strength will be missed from that abode. He knows how to have a good time, to study, to work, and to write letters—absence makes the feet grow tender, if one has to walk fifteen miles to see The Girl, eh, Perk? Best wishes from us all for the success of Doc Perkins!

ELVA MAY PERRY, A.B.

"A good heart's worth gold."

Born Nov. 24, 1900, Norway, Me.; Norway High School; Soccer, 3; Enkuklios; Entre Nous; Y. W. C. A.; Hockey, 1, 2nd, 4; Phil-Hellenic Club, 3, 4; Deutscher Verein, 3, 4; Seniority.

Although not published, here is the champion cake maker of '22. And, by the way, do you know the way to a man's heart? Quietness hides a good deal of mischief sometimes and we think it is the case here. We suspect Elva's merry eye of winking a wink now and then. Disposition—sweet; character—very industrious, apparently steady; conversational abilities—mostly confined to "Willum the Conqueror;" mental capacity—characterized by a love of history; ambition—to work in New Jersey; talents—inclined toward household arts; associates—the elite of Cheney; chief activity—the art of letter writing with personal and extensive study of first-hand methods.

HELEN HILDRED RICHARDSON, A.B.

"To-day, whatever may annoy,
The word for me is joy, just joy;
And when to-morrow comes, why then,
'Twill be to-day and joy again."

Born Oct. 3, 1900, Sabattus, Me.; Sabattus High; Entre Nous; Alethea, 2, 3; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; Le Petit Salon, 2; Mandolin Club, 2, 4; Outing Club, 2, 3, 4.

How many of us will remember your hospitality and good cheer on those trips to Sabattus; how many your ability to tell a story so we split our sides a-laughing; how many your gay optimism through all kinds of weather; and then how many of us envy that "domestic happiness, thou only bliss of Paradise, that has survived the fall."

NORMAN ERNEST ROSS, B.S.

"Rossy"

The stalwart body of a mighty smith—
A face unlined by care or crafty guile.

Born Aug. 7, 1898, Kennebunkport, Me.; Biddeford High; Class Track, 1, 2, 3; Class Baseball; Varsity Football, 1, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Track, 2, 3, 4; Director, Outing Club, 2, 3, 4; Ivy Day Committee; Jordan Scientific Society; Military Science Club; Varsity Club.

Rossy can give and take a joke, an enviable quality in any man. He tongues a suede-like line also, which enhances his charm over Rand way, we hear. He's given his best to Bates as a scintillant linesman on the varsity football squad, as well as swinging an uncouth hammer. He never gets angry in public, never gets over-heated or excited, and as may be observed from his picture is the very embodiment of manly vigor and high-pressure exuberance of animal spirits. In a gym suit he reminds one of Beltane, the Mighty Smith; in a dress suit he resembles either Bill Farnum or Raffles, we're not sure which. The graduating class gained a man exuding real good-fellowship, friendliness, and optimism in Rossy. Long may he—and his hair—wave!

CARL PULSIFER ROUNDS, A.B.

The studied grace of Beau Brummel himself—
A diplomat and athlete, all in one.

Born Jan. 1, 1898, Minot Corner, Me.; Jordan High School; Class Basketball, 3, 4; Varsity Football, 3, 4; Varsity Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4, Captain, 4; Athletic Council, 3; Ivy Day Toastmaster, 3; Musical Clubs, 3, 4; Military Science Club, 3, 4; Varsity Club; Physics Assistant, 3, 4; Physical Training Assistant, 3, 4.

Smooth and unruffled always, courteous and pleasant, gazing at the world with a cool, level-headed outlook, a keen student of the great old game of Bluff, a mixer, with a "line" to fit whatever company he is with, Carl is popular and deservedly so. There is more fight to the square inch in Rounds than there is to the square foot in many men twice his size, a fact shown by his excellent athletic record at Bates. As a gym instructor he has succeeded in some degree in changing many a shambling, awkward frosh into something more like a man. Impeccable in dress, speech, manner is he—we can't knock Carl; if we did, we might scar his polish!

DELORA ALPEN SMITH, A.B.

"Every ship needs ballast. The grand old ship '22 has its ballast in Delora."

Born July 1, 1900, Livermore Falls, Me.; Livermore Falls High; Entre Nous; Y. W. C. A.; Phil-Hellenic Club, 4; Outing Club, 2, 3, 4; Enkuklios.

If all the world were frivolous and gay, where would we get? Ditto in the class of '22. Delora gives us a semblance of stability which we would not have otherwise. When the Profs think of '22 they say, "Well there, if Delora Smith belongs there, there must be something to them." And one notable Prof, after looking disgustedly at a bunch of co-eds "without one ear to be seen in the whole bunch," marched up to Delora and complimented her heartily on her style of hair-dressing. But there's lots of proper fun and mischief in Delora, when you happen to meet it, and there's no better friend to us all. Whether she turns out a preacher, a professor of philosophy, or a general reformer, we want to be there and watch her do it.

MILDRED ISABELLE STARBIRD, A.B.

"Lay aside life-harming heaviness
And entertain a cheerful disposition."

Born June 24, 1901, Lisbon, Me.; Lisbon and Edward Little High Schools; Y. W. C. A.; I. C. S. A.; Enkuklios; Seniority; Outing Club.

Here is contentment personified. We never saw Mildred when she didn't look perfectly satisfied with the world in general. Her faithful work, cheerful disposition, and bright smile have won for her an enviable position and any pharmacy or any big-city doctor in need of an assistant who can be efficient and pleasant at the same time, should consider her a valuable asset.

PHILIP L. STEVENS, B.S.

"Phil"

Come! I will paint you scenes, not with the brush
That artists use, but beams of living light!

Born June 4, 1899, Lewiston, Me.; Edward Little High School; Class Debate, 1; Forum, 1, 2; Class Track, 1, 2, 3; Class Hockey, 3; MIRROR Board.

This gentleman is about the best wire-puller in the class. We hasten to add that reference is made to bona-fide electrical wires, not the species politicus. Phil has real genius when it comes to creating Belasco effects by the manipulation of calcium and carbon flood lights and spot lights; but again, when it comes to managing his lights o' love, as the Immortal Bard might say, Phil figuratively burns his fingers, we understand. Phil likewise pushes an artistic crayon, and the symmetry and high grade character of his designs is worthy of a professional. With two such talents at his fingertips, he need not worry about the well-known and unpopular wolf at the door.

EDWARD G. STICKNEY, B.S.

"Stick"

"Iconoclastic man of silent mood—
Yet with a smile of all-embracing warmth."

Born Dec. 27, 1899, Brownfield, Me.; Fryeburg Academy; Class Track, 1, 2; Class Football, 2; Y. M. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, 4; Spofford Club, 3, 4; Press Club, 4.

Not many of us really know Stick, for he is sparing of words which might point a way to such discovery. As a Rand Hall worker, he has had much contact with the co-eds, yet he is an enigma to them, also. In classes, occasional flashes of dry humor attest his love of fun; in Spofford, queer tales from his pen of mystery, blood 'n bones, and country life with barrels of local color mixed in prove that he has talent in short story writing. He is an omniverous reader. He is a protestant against the established order of things, particularly compulsory chapel, thereby proving that the bond linking him, though silent, to his classmates is very real. Dryly humorous and clear-headed chap that you are—here's luck!

HERBERT STANLEY STILES, B.S.

The tentacles of Business sought him out
And drew him, willing slave, unto itself.

Born July 30, 1899, New Brunswick, Canada; Kent's Hill Seminary; Cercle Francais. 2, 4; Class Treasurer, 1; Jordan Scientific Society, 4; Politics Club, 4; Outing Club, 3, 4.

Soft spoken, efficient, juggling figures as to the multigraph born, pounding a 2.20 clip in the typewriters' free-for-all, holding a responsible position under Bursar Rowe without ever getting a "call" (mirabile dictu!) Stiles is yet far from the automaton into which office work sometimes molds its people. We have never heard his line, but judging from the rapt expression which the young lady's face bore as she listened attentively while Herbert poured dulcet tones into her ear at one of the Saturday evening dances, we know it must have savored of the "Punch Bowl" rather than "System." If courtesy, efficiency, neatness, and close application to the matter at hand be steps on the journey, Stiles is already well on the way to success.

OLIVE JOYCE STONE, A.B.

"With an eye to see
Life's sunniest side, and a heart to take
Its chances all as God-sends."

Born Dec. 3, 1900, Locke's Mills, Me.; Norway High; Entre Nous; Le Petit Salon, 1, 2, 3, 4; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; Seniority; Outing Club.

Olive is always there with a smile and a helping hand whatever goes wrong. She enlivens Cheney House often by starting some sparkling bit of jazz on the piano, dances when opportunity arises, and makes her corner of the world merrier in every possible way. She's a true-blue friend, a helper always ready, a friendly, sympathetic, cheerful soul. We understand that her favorite cookie is the "Brownie" and that Agriculture holds her interest fast. Keep up your smile and your fun, Olive, we need you in this dull, old world—and incidentally you'll have a good psychological effect upon yourself.

KENNETH FRANK SULLIVAN, B.S.

"Sully"

Now though a man be silent, yet I claim
He yet may be admired—here's the proof.

Born April 29, 1898, Houlton, Me.; Houlton High; Class Football, 2; Class Basketball, 4; Class Treasurer, 4; Varsity Football, 2, 3, 4; Ivy Day Committee; Director, Outing Club, 4; Military Science Club; Politics Club.

You never see Sully tearing his hair or waving his arms wildly around or over-exercising his vocal powers; yet somehow his quiet personality has a dominating note behind it of steady, level-headed self-confidence which has won him the respect and confidence of his classmates. He is always ready to meet anyone half-way, in work or play, and is well-liked by all with whom he comes in contact. At a down-town drug store, he has waited on many of us, serving a sundæ with the same expression of gentlemanly dignity which he wears when pinning some burly opponent's shoulders to the wrestling mat. A man's man, he is sure to go as far as he wishes in life.

WILFRED BANCROFT SYLVESTER, A.B.

"Fred"

"He found that Knowledge lies not all in books
And much he grew in breadth and strength of mind."

Born Feb. 3, 1900, Reading, Mass.; Reading High; Politics Club, 3, 4.

Fred impresses one as belonging to that intellectual and dignified cycle in which deep, deep thinkers are supposed to move and have their bean. Fred has his lighter moments, however, and his ability to converse on a multitudinous variety of subjects, culled from wide reading and a taste for the odd and unusual in journalism or literature, makes his comradeship something to be valued. A surprisingly ribald sense of humor gleams at times in those round orbs behind the tortoise shell glasses. In the chemistry of his personality there appears to be compounded an admirable amount of serious thought, a saving dash of humor, a keen observation, a mind always on an even keel, and the ability to meet his fellow-man more than half way, if necessary.

RUSSELL PETER TAYLOR, A.B.

"Russ"

"He tossed his winning hand upon the board—
His Cards of Character—a royal flush!"

Born Aug. 11, 1896, Cambridge, Mass.; Stephens High; Freshman and Sophomore Prize Speaker; Class President, 2; Ivy Day Speaker; Class Party Committees; Class Baseball, Hockey and Basketball; Student Council, 2, 3, 4, President, 4; Outing Club, Director, 2, 3, 4, President, 4; Commons Committee, 2, 3, 4, Chairman, 4; Military Science Club, 2, 3, 4; Politics Club, 3, 4; Editor-in-Chief of MIRROR.

"Ha! Ha! I c-c-certainly k-k-k-kidded him good, all r-r-right!" and Russ shakes with glee as he describes his victim's discomfiture. Russ has packed a lot into four years at Bates—he has spent a hundred years in one evening on the dance floor, or so he says. He is slow in judgment, and equable in temperament, universally popular on both sides of the campus, certain to carry through anything he commences, a reliable person with an admirable sincerity permeating everything he thinks, says, or does. His sense of humor is elephantine and his shafts of wit fall with dull thuds on their recipients. Never mind, Russ, while there's "Life," there's hope.

DANIEL THOMPSON, A.B.

"Dan"

There may be bigger men in purse or girth,
But none with larger heart or friendlier hand.

Born Feb. 19, 1894, Richmond, Yorkshire, England; New England School of Theology, '17; Newton Theological Institute, '20; Class Chaplain, 3, 4; Junior Exhibition.

Dan has made his trek from Sabattus to Bates daily for two years, mingled with us, and gone back to his small flock without leaving much knowledge of himself with many of his classmates. To be sure, he flourishes a sprightly tennis racket in the spring and fall; but weekly sermons, a flourishing congregation with its attendant pastoral cares, and a cheerful and extremely cozy home serve to keep the major part of his attention and time fixed upon them. It is in the hearts of his parishioners that we must seek the real Dan, and in their loyalty and the regard in which they hold this gentleman from the mother country, we can secure some small inkling of his true self from those who know him best. From his tennis contortions, we should say he belongs to that old Society of England, the W. and W.—"Wim and wigor."

DAVID DENNETT THOMPSON, A.B.

"Dave"

"For this power to charm us common folk
What heavenly muse did you invoke?"

Born Aug. 12, 1899, Lewiston, Me.; Jordan High; Assistant manager Tennis, 2; Class Play, 3; Musical Clubs, 3, 4; Student Board, 3; Spofford Club, 2, 3, 4, President, 4; Macfarlane Club, 3, 4, President, 4; Junior Exhibition, 3, Prize, 3; Ivy Poem; Personal Editor, MIRROR; Assistant in English, 4.

Brilliant in the firmament of the many native sons of Lewiston who have honored Bates with their presence shines the star of this bard, orator and prince of good fellows. From the very beginning he has been a prize member of '22 and a distinct asset to the college. In our Freshman year he started off with a bang by winning the "Best Original Bates Song Contest." His natural ability in dramatics is unquestioned, and during the past few years much delightful entertainment has been provided the student body by our "3 in 1"—author, actor and stage manager. In the big class event of last year, the Junior Exhibition, his eloquence won first place. His lively wit is always used in a kindly way. A great mixer and an all-round fellow, Dave swings a flashy racket, but—handicapped by a head of raven black hair—finds it difficult to keep out of the clutches of those awful co-eds.

DORIS E. TRAVER, A.B.

"'Tis said that absence conquers love;
But oh, believe it not!
I've tried, alas, its power to prove,

Born May 14, 1900, Lowell, Mass.; Lowell High; Entre Nous; Le Petit Salon, 1, 2, 3, 4; Alethea, 2; Deutscher Verein, 4; Seniority; Glee Club, 4; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 4.

It must be nice to be remembered like that, but isn't it a rather lonesome job, Dot,—especially when he's so far away for so many, many weeks at a time? Doris is a trim little lady; conscientious and industrious, a student and a housekeeper. In fact, we believe that a new honor has come upon the class of '22 through Doris' and Evelyn's effort: i. e., we believe that never in the history of Rand Hall was there any room so immaculate as theirs. Other rooms may look nearly as nice when they're dressed up and there's company coming, but for ordinary every-day wear—theirs is our one best bet. We'd be glad to recommend you, Dot, if it were necessary.

HELEN ANNESLEY WADDELL, A.B.

"What chance can mar the pearl and gold
Thy love hath left in trust with us?"

Born 1899, San Pedro, Calif.; Curso de Preparatorios do Mackenzie College, San Paulo, Brazil; transferred at end of Sophomore year from Mackenzie College, Brazil; Phil-Hellenic Club; Spofford Club; Ramsdell Scientific Society; Seniority; Soccer 2nd, 3; Hockey 2nd, 4.

Helen didn't join us until the fall of Junior year, having spent her earlier years in South America; but then she immediately won her way into the hearts of the folks at Rand. Since she is a rather quiet individual—part of the time—some of us didn't become very well acquainted with her right away, but the capable, mischief-loving friend we found was well worth waiting for. Do you remember the time the late Miss Waddell entered English class before the last bell rang! And the time she took a vase to Bib. Lit.? Did you ever think you'd strayed into Portugal when you heard Helen and Richard talking together? Her silences are golden—then she's absorbing knowledge; but always after her calm the storm—of practical jokes!

MARJORIE FRANCES WALDEN, A.B.

"Write your name with kindness on the hearts of those about you and you will never be forgotten."

Born March 26, 1900, Greenland, N. H.; Portsmouth High; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; New Hampshire Club.

We see her plugging in the library, we see her at a downtown café, we see her at the Strand, we see her buried in the latest magazine, we see her composing voluminous letters to Harvard, we see her often, BUT we never hear her. Hers is a silent soul, and since silence gives consent, we'll say she'd better be awfully careful some day. Another New Hampshire representative; we feel sure that the neighbor state likes us, else why do they send us so many of their sweet girls to graduate. Marj is sweet, and kind to us all, and we are always sure of finding her our same kind, serene, little friend. We don't want to suggest any harsh methods, Marj, but how about apparatus work?

ROBERT BURNHAM WATTS, A.B.

"Bob"

"Come, Logic, and thou, too, my good friends, Scorn,
And Irony—we'll crush them where they stand."

Born May 28, 1901, Portland, Me.; Deering High School; Class President, 1; Class Marshal, 2; Class Track, 2, 3, 4; Freshman Prize Speaking; Sophomore Prize Debate; Varsity Debating, 1, 2, 3, 4; Drew Medals; Editor-in-Chief, Bates Student, 3; Cheer Leader, 3; Student Council, 2, 3; Military Science Club; Politics Club; Argumentation Assistant, 3, 4.

Bob is a "go-getter." Brilliant, with a remarkable command of English, he has won international fame as a debater, captaining the varsity teams for three years. As Student editor he made huge improvements in that sheet and put it on its feet. To a casual observer of Bob's other activities it would appear that ol' man Cupid had shot him with a machine gun. Bob is slated for big things if any man in the class is; it can be said of him that he is a man sufficient unto himself, capable if need be of standing alone squarely on his two feet, meeting the issue, as he sees it, fairly and honestly. He is wont to consider things in threes, due to much debating. We hope the rewards of life will also be yours in like proportion—only remember, Bob, three's the limit!

HAROLD BURTON WHITING, B.S.

"Man wants but 'little' here below,
But wants that 'little' much!"

Born Jan. 16, 1899, Auburn, Me.; Edward Little High School; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, 4; Assistant in Chemistry, 2, 3, 4.

Harold has one of those quiet, Stealthy Steve personalities inclining toward gumshoes, finger-on-lip, "hist!" and that sort of thing. He mixes a little of the acid of cynicism in his attitude toward various things, doubtless due to much association with acrid brews in the chem lab, where Harold, old boy, has risen to an honored assistantship with a flowing duster and a pair of altruistic goggles. But he has shattered that immutable law that it is opposites that attract, that blonde and brunette gravitate toward each other and, like many a weaker man, has succumbed to sunny smiles and light locks. Perhaps he's going into some match manufacturing factory; if so, Bates has given him her best in that line!

BERTHA KAYE WHITTIER, A.B.

"Being good is an awful lonesome job."

Born March 16, 1901, East Walpole, Mass.; Walpole High; Hockey 2nd, 2, 4; Volleyball, 4; Basketball 2nd, 3; Soccer 2nd, 3; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; Massachusetts Club; Outing Club, 2, 3, 4.

This graceful young lady, whom we like so well to look at, is full of the kind of pep which makes college life attractive to some folks. Her eyes have a slightly enchanting gleam which gets them. She is capable of hard study, especially when a bit crushed on the Prof, and even in moments of great stress, looks as though she had just stepped from an Elite. Charming, disarming, alarming, she knows her man and takes away his weapons so gracefully that he doesn't know they're gone. But she belongs to us and we love her for her sweet grace and charm. You don't need to say "forget-me-not," K, we just couldn't.

DAVID MILTON WILEY, B.S.

Place thou a piece of chalk within my hand
And wonders will I do with that white wand.

Born Nov. 26, 1896, Littleton, Me.; Solon High School.

Dave came to us in our Junior year, and proceeded to show that in the realms of math and physics he was at home. After two years in the Navy, we would hardly have expected him to be such an expert in the singing of hymns, but, surprising as it may seem, Dave is simply overflowing with melodious notes of praise; when the organ strikes its first chord, Dave is all set, and immediately lifts his voice to the chapel rafters in gladsome tenor quavers. His wide, blue eyes and round face complete the picture of a modern Michael Angelo singing-cherub. A keen and happy chap, he has his passport to success viséd already by Messrs. Good Temper, Hard Work, and Prof. Whitehorne.

FRANCES MURIEL WILLS, A.B.

"The brightness of the human countenance,
Its play of smiles, the magic of a glance."

Born June 4, 1901, Lewiston, Me.; Jordan High; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4, Captain, 4; Volleyball, 4; Basketball, 2, 3; Track, 1, 2, 3, Captain, 2; Baseball, 1; Soccer, 2, 3; Numerals; "B"; Class Secretary, 3; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; Seniority; Ramsdell Scientific Society, 3, 4; Macfarlane Club, 4; Mandolin Club, 2, 3, 4, Leader, 4; Athletic Board; MIRROR Board.

Could anything be brighter, more inclined to smile, more magic than "Red's" cheery countenance? She is a tiny person, but every inch, every ounce of her holds an unbelievable amount of highly concentrated energy. She's never still a minute, and everything she enters gains greatly in pep. Rand Hall has been a lively place during this last year with her living there—that is, while she's there it's lively, but Muriel must needs spend much time in the Chem Lab working hard,—and incidentally having a grand good time on the side,—and we have a strong suspicion that certain other people's labors are cheered by her sunny presence. Red gives everyone a good time—plays the piano for us, organizes snowshoe parties—with such eats at the end!—puts her mandolin club through its stunts for our enjoyment, and does innumerable other nice things. She's made good in all kinds of athletics, too—a fine, square sport,—little, but oh my! That's the old fight, Red!

VIVIAN O. WILLS, A.B.

"But to see her was to love her,
Love but her and love forever;
For Nature made her what she was,
And never made another."

Born Oct. 17, 1900, Turner, Me.; Edward Little High School; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4; Baseball, 1; Soccer, 2, 3; Hiking, 4; Numerals; Entre Nous, 1; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Enkuklios; Alethea, 2, 3; Le Petit Salon, 2, 3, Treasurer, 3; Outing Club; Chairman, Social Committee Y. W. Cabinet, 4; Seniority; Deutscher Verein, Vice-President, 4; Student Government Judiciary Board, 2, 3; Council, 4; Athletic Board, 4.

If you ever saw Vivie tackle a baseball or handle a hockey stick, you were probably surprised. She doesn't look that way at all. She looks most mild and gentle, but there are really unsounded depths to her nature. Only one thing ever ruffled her sweetness, and that was Pa Gould's History course. From her curly head down to her busy feet, she has her own winning ways. More than one unacquainted person has asked, "Is she really like that all the time?" And we proudly say, "Yes, every minute."

EVELYN GEORGIANA WIMERSBERGER, A.B.

"No kindlier soul e'er ministered to me."

Born Nov. 19, 1898, Lundy's Lane, Penna.; Elk Creek and Edward Little High; Hockey 2nd, 3; X-tra Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Alethea, 2; Phil-Hellenic Club, 3, 4; Seniority, 4; Deutscher Verein, 3, 4; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios.

There are few of us who would have the ambition to work as Evelyn has done to gain two educations at once. Steady work with History 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 etc., didn't keep her busy, so she decided to use her odd moments at the C. M. G. and become a nurse. Such industry is beyond us—we cannot aspire to it—but we honor it all the more. And did you ever see such a tidy room in your life? It makes us blush for shame at our own. "But why should life all labor be," Evelyn? Being lazy is awful nice sometimes.

MARGARET GRAY WYMAN, A.B.

"All who joy would win Must share it—Happiness was born a twin."

Born Oct. 1, 1899, Cumberland Center, Me.; Greely Institute; Soccer, 2; Basketball, 3; Soccer 2nd, 3; Entre Nous; Alethea, 2, 3; Portland Club; Deutscher Verein, 3; Enkuklios; Le Petit Salon, 3, 4; A. A.; Outing Club; Y. W. C. A.

And there's always happiness where Twinnie is. Even when she studies with you, this half of the rather quiet appearing Wyman department can—and does—bring bits of merriment into the work. There will always be one question in our minds, Twinnie: How do you tell yourselves apart? Do you decide in the morning which you'll be for that day, or what? There's a single disadvantage in having a double, though—the other half can always blame you if things don't come out right, n'est-ce pas? Cheer up, Twinnie, your blame won't be very terrible as long as one of you two is the cause of it! We can't imagine one twin without the other—

MILDRED HERRICK WYMAN, A.B.

"Shure, the shovel and tongs
To each other belongs."

Born Oct. 1, 1899, Cumberland Center, Me.; Greely Institute; Soccer, 2; Basketball, 3; Soccer 2nd, 3; Entre Nous; Alethea, 2, 3; Le Petit Salon, 2, 3; Deutscher Verein, 3, 4; Portland Club; A. A.; Seniority; Outing Club; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios.

Any more than Whittier without Milliken. And if, by chance, they do get separated, we're so surprised we say with Dr. Leonard: "Miss Wyman, is it you or your sister who is absent?" The twins make us more perplexed than ever by insisting on dressing exactly alike. How they can always agree on perfect harmony is altogether too deep for our individualistic minds. We understand that Mildred would rather read than polish shoes any day,—and incidentally that she's fond of a good joke. By the way, Twinnie, we know now whose shoes the spooks wore at a certain mysterious meeting at Rand Hall once.

P. S. If you're looking for the "Motion Picture Magazine," you'll find it in the Twinnies' room.

ELEANORE YEATON, A.B.

"Ellie"

"What stature is she of?
Just as high as my heart."

Born Dec. 25, 1901, Westbrook, Me.; Lisbon Falls High; Baseball 2nd, 1; Basketball, 1; Hockey, 3; Hockey 2nd, 2, 4; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Ramsdell Scientific Society, 3, 4; Seniority; Mandolin Club, 3, 4.

We take great pleasure in introducing the "Short" of the Long-and-Short of it. Ellie has dabbled in all the sciences; she is a zoologist, a botanist, a geologist, a chemist, and the first and only "forestette" at Bates. However, her accomplishments do not end here, for she's an artist, musician, athlete, and dancer besides. Here's one girl, at least, who allows herself to look up to mere man!

With "one more to go" the Class of 1923 takes a glance backward and sees in its progress favorable signs for the future. Although failing in some respects, we have endeavored to make the most of our opportunities at Bates. It has been for us, "the chosen few," to demonstrate enthusiasm not only in athletics, but in every phase of college activities.

Since our entrance in the fall of 1919 we have, with each succeeding year, endeavored to strengthen and uphold the spirit of Bates. As a proof of this we point with pride to the new initiation program for the Freshmen, which was introduced in our Sophomore year. During the past year we have watched with satisfaction the working out of this more humane treatment of the unsuspecting underlings. We hope the present system will continue in operation during the succeeding years, as the results testify to better class feeling and a greater college loyalty.

As we end the third year of our college work we are conscious of the possibilities which await us. With an ever broadening vision we look forward to the fulfillment of our motto, "Onward and Upward."

We, the Sophomores,
Having emerged from the hypnotic effects of Prof. Rob's "Conversational Form" and Birdie's "Friend-sicks," do hereby
State that we appreciate the Greek root of our present title.
May it be safe to say,
We feel sure that we are now able
To give full information on
The art of initiation,
The art of persuasion in class meetings,
Rules of parliamentary law which have
Been found useless to us, and especially,
Etiquette at formal dancing parties
(Having secured the first edition for our Alma Mater).
Doc Britan has prepared us for Future thrills in life, and
We are confident that we could even Adapt ourselves to an enjoyable
Life in the Alps.
Yes, we must admit
We feel sophisticated
As is our privilege,
But
We are determined to progress
In our successful spirit
Until the world will Venerate our "Little Red School"
Down in Maine.

1925

WE are
THE Freshmen.
WE hold dominion
OVER nobody in PARTICULAR;
WE are HAPPY in our
IRRESPONSIBILITY.
WE have been INITIATED,
AND know all about
IT.
WE have gushed about the GLORY of the upper classes
BECAUSE we had to, not BECAUSE we took ANY STOCK in
IT.
WE have not had any
HOPS, like the Sophomores,
BECAUSE our
HOPPERS have not developed.
IN this respect, but in
THIS only, do we resemble
POLLYWOGS. Therefore, dear people,
WE are not green.
WE notice that we won that TRACK
MEET, and other affairs where
WE were not afraid of VIOLATING TRADITIONS.
WE look serenely toward the FUTURE, calm in the KNOWLEDGE that no
CLASS entering in the FUTURE can possibly equal
OURS, for
WE must admit,
WE are the STUFF. This isn't CONCEIT. It is
CLASS spirit.
SO watch our
SMOKE, dear people, and
WE cordially invite your APPROBATION. Do
WE?
OUI.

SOCIETY

Jordan Scientific Society

Officers

President, WILLIAM O. BAILEY, '22
Secretary and Treasurer, F. ALBERT BUOTE, '22
Executive Committee, HAROLD W. MANTER, '22, Chairman

The Jordan Scientific Society was organized in 1910. The object of the society is to promote interest in science, to cultivate a spirit of research work, and to show the application of science to problems of every-day life. Its membership is limited to eighteen men, thirteen from the senior class, and five from the junior class. Special recommendations from the heads of the various science departments are required for admission.

The meetings, which are held bi-monthly, are well attended, often by outside members. Each member is required at least once during the year to prepare a paper on some scientific subject of general interest and present it before the members. Dr. Lawrence has shown a keen interest in the society and is ever willing to aid it every possible way. At the beginning of the present year he gave a talk on "Vitamines," imparting much information about the subject not obtainable in classroom work. The society was again favored by the presence of Dr. Meyer, a representative of the Badische Company, who gave a very accurate and interesting talk on the cause of the great chemical explosions at Oppau, Germany.

The scientific exhibition, which is held annually, proved to be a very entertaining and effective method of bringing before the public the actual accomplishments of the society in the realm of science. The society owes much of its success to the late Dr. Lyman B. Jordan, whose name it bears.

Spofford Literary Club

Officers

President, DAVID THOMPSON, '22
Vice-President, DOROTHEA DAVIS, '22
Secretary-Treasurer, ELEANORE BRADFORD, '22

Meeting every week in Libbey Forum, Spofford Club proudly bears the name of one of the most active clubs on the campus. The unusual interest displayed and the work effectively accomplished are due partly to the membership limitation to fifteen and partly to the occasional social events (such as bacon bats, sleigh ride and house parties), both encouraging a spirit of comradeship and good-will. The program consists of the reading of original compositions by two of the members and resultant criticism from the club. The nature of the productions have varied from essay to drama and from short-story to poetry. This year the Club has sought to broaden its literary background by presentation of a book review at each meeting. This new feature has been a source of inspiration and enjoyment.

An account of Spofford would not be complete without mention of the annual Spofford Night. At this time one or more original plays are staged. The vital interest displayed by the student body and the success of the affair are a real test of the fulfillment of Spofford aims.

Spofford members are deeply indebted to Professor Baird, whose criticisms, genuine interest, and helpful guidance have been in no small measure a vital force in Spofford success.

Politics Club

Officers

President, AURIE I. JOHNSON, '22
Vice-President, LAWRENCE D. KIMBALL, '22
Secretary, J. WILLIAM ASHTON, '22
Treasurer, RAYMOND B. BUKER, '22

This year has marked a decided advance in the importance of Politics Club on the campus. It has come to hold, more securely than ever before, the leadership in the discussion and consideration of questions of national and international import. It has ably fulfilled the fundamental provision of its constitution: "To provide an opportunity for the discussion of economic problems and to investigate social and political problems of the day." Its membership is limited to twenty men of the two upper classes who have shown special ability in the departments of Economics and History.

During the year the club has been addressed by such prominent people as Professor Walter B. Pitkin, Miss Margaret Alexander, and various other national figures. An Open Forum was held for the discussion of the problems facing the Disarmament Conference, and at various times members of the club have presented the results of their own investigations along particular lines. Particularly important has been Professor Gould's work in guiding this society.

Military Science

Officers

Vice-President, HERBERT R. BEAN, '23
Secretary-Treasurer, F. ALBERT BUOTE, '22

Military Science is one of the most progressive societies on the campus. The object of the society is the study and thorough understanding of military science and its application. Many interesting talks are given at its meetings by members who have engaged in active service in the World War. Local authorities on military science frequently bring matters of interest to the society, whose membership at present is twenty-six.

For the present high standing of which Military Science can boast it is largely indebted to Dr. Tubbs. Every year since the organization of the society he has delivered a series of lectures on the theory of warfare. He is a recognized authority on this subject and is always ready to contribute to the welfare of the society.

Phil-Hellenic

Officers

President, CLARENCE FORBES, '22
Vice-President, MARION EARLE, '23
Secretary-Treasurer, IZETTA LIDSTONE, '22

Not only is Phil-Hellenic one of the most active clubs on the campus, but it is perhaps the most democratic. Its members aim to demonstrate the value of classic literature and customs. In addition, they are interested in promoting greater understanding of social attitudes and conditions of Greeks in America through acquaintance with the Greek people of Lewiston and Auburn.

Illustrated lectures, talks by different members of the Faculty and by members of the club, together with the presentation of a Greek play, help carry out the first aim. Live programs are provided by such topics as Report of Greek Centennial Celebration of Independence; Talks on Greek Independence by Mr. Generis and Mr. Anapas; Olympic Games of Old Greece and Today; Marriage Customs in Greece; The Making of a Spartan Soldier.

At the annual reception and the genuine Greek Symposium, as well as in occasional meetings, the club learns to know intimately the Greeks of the city. Throughout the year the members maintain interest in the lives and works of the old-time Greeks and a personal relationship with their descendants, the modern Greeks of America.

Enkuklios

Officers

President, FLORENCE FERNALD, '22
Vice-President, ALICE JESSEMAN, '23
Secretary, HELEN HAMM, '24
Treasurer, RUTH BARBER, '24

It is to Enkuklios, founded in 1915, that Bates folks owe many of their good times. Every girl belongs to Enkuklios, a fact which makes it evident that our social occasions are particularly successful.

The Freshmen are profitably instructed in the customs and traditions of Bates at the opening meeting held during initiation week.

Informal teas for the faculty ladies, informal parties in the gymnasium at Rand, and parties for both men and women at Chase Hall furnish excellent opportunities for cultivating acquaintances made in the class-room.

Perhaps the prettiest affair of the year is the formal reception on Washington's birthday when the girls entertain their parents and friends at a formal reception in Rand. Thus the name Enkuklios is a recollection of many pleasant occasions.

Seniority

Officers

President, DORRIS LONGLEY

Vice-President, GEORGIANA HAYES

Secretary-Treasurer, FRANCES MINOT

The year 1921-1922 has been one of Seniority's best. The membebrship is based upon rank in English with a straight B necessary. Each year, five members are chosen from the Junior class and the remaining Seniors of B grade are admitted. Last year, Dorris Longley, Frances Minot, Mavorette Blackmer, Cleora Jackson, and Georgiana Hayes were chosen from '22 and this year Alice Jessiman, Hazel Prescott, Elsie Roberts, Vivienne Rogers, and Dorothy Wheet were chosen from '23. The membership is limited to 35 and meetings are held regularly twice a month during the college year. The programs have all been very worth while, including lectures by excellent speakers, group study of travels through Scotland, Japan, China, and the East, practical criticism of the modern novel and the drama, and occasional social meetings, such as the initiation play and the Christmas party. In the latter part of January, an excellent and beautiful drama was presented at Hathorn Hall, called "The Chinese Lantern." It was a great success and set a standard for the future of the club. The leading parts were played by Dorothea Davis, Virginia Mixer, Dorris Longley, and Beatrice Clark. It was a departure and an improvement from the past. Prof. and Mrs. Hartshorn are the Patron Saints of the club and it has enjoyed their kind interest through the year.

Alethea

Officers

President, AMY V. BLAISDELL, '23
Vice-President, MARCELLA M. HARRADON, '24
Secretary-Treasurer, GRACE R. HEBB, '24

Alethea, which is the reorganized form of U. A. C. C., founded in 1914, is composed of Junior and Sophomore girls. The society meets twice a month, programs centering on some phase of music, literature or art. The club has the earnest co-operation of all its members, and some very enlightening discussions have been enjoyed. The purpose of Alethea is one of large scope, so that everyone derives benefit from it.

Entre Nous

Officers

President, Helen M. Lovelace Secretary-Treasurer, Elsie F. Brickett

Although Entre Nous, a society for the Freshman girls of Bates, has had but a limited number of meetings this year, it gives promise of a most interesting season. The girls have shown remarkable enthusiasm and "pep" in carrying out the work of the organization and in attending its sessions. At the first meeting, officers for the year were elected, and it was decided that the study of some worth-while subject should be alternated with amateur theatricals and other original forms of entertainment as a regular program for the club. At a later meeting, a short but novel pantomime was presented by members of the society, staged, directed, and enacted by their own talent. Thus the girls are endeavoring to live up to the ideals of Entre Nous, as those ideals and purposes were set before them by the word and example of their predecessors.

Ramsdell Scientific Society

Officers

President, Grace Hazel Luce, '22

Vice-President, Theodora R. Barentzan, '23

Secretary, Alice R. Parsons, '22

Because Bates girls showed themselves so interested in science, the Ramsdell Scientific Society was formed in February, 1919, in order to give them an opportunity to discuss scientific problems outside of the classroom. The membership is not to exceed fifteen members, chosen from the Junior and Senior classes upon recommendations from the faculty in at least two branches of science or upon two consecutive recommendations from one professor. The branches of science represented are Mathematics, Chemistry, Biology, Physics, and Forestry.

Every first and third Thursday evening of each month these girls go to Carnegie Science Hall where they listen to instructive and interesting talks given by one of their number or by some outside speaker. Although the meetings this year have been few in number, each one has been full of snap and interest that speaks well for the success of the club. One of the instructive lectures this year was that given by Dr. Lawrence on "Vitamines" on which he gave much valuable information in a pleasing and capable manner. Typical subjects discussed at different meetings have been Coal Tar By-Products, Maine Gems, Invertebrate Life Along the Maine Coast, Side-lights on Surveying, Importance of Insect Life, Snake Poisons, and Artificial Silk. A petition was sent to President Gray asking that the B.S. degree be conferred on the women of Bates College.

This year one trip was taken for practical survey, at which time the members visited the Lewiston Journal Office, Coon's Ice Cream Factory, and the local Telephone Office. The interest aroused warrants more such visits on the year's program.

Macfarlane Club

Officers

President, DAVID THOMPSON, '22
Vice-President, FLORENCE FERNALD, '22
Secretary-Treasurer, IZETTA LIDSTONE, '22

The Macfarlane Club, which is named after Will C. Macfarlane, former Municipal Organist of Portland, Maine, is one of the youngest musical clubs on the campus. Five years ago this spring, it was founded by several students who desired to create an appreciation of the best music and its cultural value and to gain knowledge of some of the greatest composers and their works.

At present the membership of the club has increased to twenty-six, not including many honorary members who are interested in the club and who give much of their time in making it successful.

In the semi-monthly meeting both honorary and active members participate. Papers and biographies of famous composers, discussion of their composition, and individual renderings are features of the work.

Der Deutscher Verein

Officers

President, LAWRENCE D. KIMBALL, '22

Vice-President, VIVIAN O. WILLS, '22

Secretary-Treasurer, MARION A. DREW, '22

In the spring of 1921 a group of German students met to reorganize a club which should take the place of Der Deutsche Verein and Die Deutsche Gesellschaft, both of which were discontinued about five years ago at the outbreak of the war. The object of the club, as stated in the constitution, is to promote interest in the literature and life of the German people. The membership limit is thirty-five,—the first choice being given to those taking the Faust course, and second choice to Seniors and Juniors who have had one year in college or two in high school.

The bi-monthly meetings consist of programs of a wide scope. At an open meeting last spring, Dr. Leonard showed stereopticon views of the Tell region from postcards which he collected when in Germany. At the Christmas meeting much interest was created in the German Christmas customs. Papers were read, and a lively discussion followed. One of the new features of the club activities was the presentation of a German play which, it is hoped, will become an annual custom. At one meeting selections were played from the opera Faust as a preliminary to the presentation of the opera in a local theatre by French talent. Mingled with the intellectual element are social diversions. The outing at Dr. Leonard's country home was an occasion never to be forgotten. The fine spirit with which this new club has begun its work shows a promise of ever increasing interest in the future.

The Press Club

Officers

President, DWIGHT E. LIBBY, '22
Vice-President, FRANCES L. MINOT, '22
Secretary-Treasurer, WALTER V. GAVIGAN, '24
Editorial Board: L. A. BURGESS, '22, NELLY K. MILLIKEN, '23, HAZEL M. MONTEITH, '23, THEODORE P. PINCKNEY, '23, HAROLD SEGAL, '24
Editorial Secretary: HAROLD S. STEVENS, '25.

The Press Club was organized in the fall of 1921 for the purpose of giving a wider publicity to our college activities. The Board immediately got in touch with several New England newspapers and gave the different members an opportunity to do practical work in the newspaper field.

The club has a membership of about thirty students, the number that may join being unlimited. The meetings occur bi-monthly on the second and fourth Mondays, and are held in the faculty room, Roger Williams Hall. Aside from the experience in writing, the club aims to give its members an idea of journalistic work, and to this end a special program has been designed for every regular meeting.

Among the speakers this year the club has had the pleasure of hearing President Gray, Mr. Arthur G. Staples, of the Lewiston Journal, and other representatives of the local papers. Different members of the club have presented articles on newspaper work for discussion, and much interest has been shown in the various programs. On special occasions the members were invited to visit the local publishing houses in order to get a definite conception of the work involved in publishing a daily paper.

Although it is one of the youngest organizations on the campus, the Press Club holds the promise of becoming one of the most prominent in the coming years.

Girls' Musical Clubs

Glee Club

Leader, DOROTHY HOLT, '22 Manager, GRACE GOULD, '22

Mandolin Club

Leader, MURIEL WILLS, '22 Manager, LUCILLE GODING, '22

Composing the Girls' Musical Clubs are the Glee and Mandolin Clubs. The membership to the Glee Club is competitive and limited to twenty-four; to the Mandolin Club, however, all girls who play stringed instruments are welcomed. This year real progress has been made. Out-of-town concerts have been given under the management of the organizations. A new feature has been the combination of both clubs in tout ensemble selections. The organizations owe much of their success to the valuable suggestions of Mr. Edwin Goss, the Director of Music. Through these clubs an opportunity is offered to develop musical appreciation.

College Choir

President, ELWOOD IRELAND, '22
Vice-President, FLORENCE FERNALD, '22
Librarian, PAUL O. LIBBY, '24

The Bates College Choir has rendered valuable service this year. Under the leadership of Mr. Edwin Goss the club has enjoyed an unusual success. There were many improvements this year as well as a greater amount of work accomplished. Every Tuesday morning either the choir sang an anthem or one of its members rendered a solo.

The Sunday afternoon Vesper Services and the annual cantata were enjoyed and keenly appreciated by the citizens of Lewiston as well as by the students.

The Choir is a modest organization, but if it can fill its present small niche in campus life, it may be considered truly worth while.

Men's Musical Clubs

Officers

Manager, ELWOOD F. IRELAND, '22
Glee Club Leader, ELWOOD F. IRELAND, '22
Mandolin Club Leader, PIERRE O. LESIEUR, '22

Although financial difficulties prevented the Men's Musical Clubs from taking their annual trip during the Christmas recess, the clubs enjoyed several short trips later in the season. The concerts were well received, and the boys were more than pleased with their reception, both on the dance floor and in the homes where they were so hospitably entertained.

The program of the concerts was well up to the standard set by the clubs in former years. There was no reader this year, but the excellent work of the male quartet, composed of Messrs. McKenney, '22, Ireland, '22, Libby, '24, and Miller, '25, filled this vacancy and added much to the variety of the program. The mandolin club under the leadership of Mr. Lesieur was in the best of form. From the very start until the final note of the Alma Mater the mandolin club strummed its way into the hearts of the entire audience,—particularly the feminine portion of the audience.

The clubs presented their programs at Sanford, Saco, Haverhill, Chelmsford, Providence, and Boston. At the close of the season, a concert and dance were given in Lewiston—and the management hopes that this custom will become established as an annual affair.

Cercle Francais

Officers

President, GRACE GOULD, '22
Vice-President, JEANNE BACHELIN, '23
Secretary, HAROLD VAYO, '24

The Cercle Francais, reorganized at the beginning of this school year, has exceeded even its former worth to the students. Professor Brown, who spent last year in France, has made the meetings of the club especially interesting by his illustrated lectures on Paris and its present day life.

The membership is limited to thirty-five upperclass students who have special interest in the French people and their language. The meetings are conducted in French and are held with a view of a better understanding of the life and customs of the French and of their relations to other countries.

Administration and Publication

Student Council

Officers

President, RUSSELL P. TAYLOR, '22

Vice-President, EARLE C. MACLEAN, '22

Secretary-Treasurer, RAYMOND J. BATTEN, '23

The members of the Student Council hold office by virtue of popular election, and in that body is invested full power of regulation and discipline in all matters pertaining to student government. At the very outset the Council for 1921-1922 impressed it upon all four classes that no laxity would be tolerated in living up to the ideals and traditions which form the atmosphere of every college worthy of the name. Furthermore, the Council this year has endeavored to be far more than a disciplinary body, and has aimed to promote in every way possible the best interests of the college.

Initiation of the Freshmen began with a bang on the first Monday after the opening of college in the fall, and the entire week was filled with fireworks enough to satisfy all concerned. As usual, the initiation period was wound up with a big banquet at which the Freshmen, Sophomores and members of the Student Council were present. The big feature of the week occurred on Monday night in the form of a Freshman Nightshirt Parade.

From the viewpoint of the Student Council, the year has been a big success, and much credit is due the faculty and the student body for their splendid co-operation.

Student Government

Officers

President, RUTH HANSON, '22
Vice-President, NELLIE MILLIKEN, '23
Secretary-Treasurer, ALICE CROSSLAND, '23

Student Government seems to have come to stay. This—the first year—has been very successful. The Board has been confronted with many knotty problems, but the work of Miss Niles and Mrs. Pomeroy has greatly aided their successful solution. The House Seniors have worked hard and diligently in their respective houses. The student body has enthusiastically supported every decision of the Board, and has done all it could to lighten the work and problems.

Student Government organizations have received a wonderful impetus with the advance of years, and with a support as loyal as has been received this year, Student Government cannot but develop into an organization that will become permanent at Bates.

Bates Debating Council

Officers

President, AURIE I. JOHNSON, '22
Vice-President, WILLIAM E. YOUNG, '24
Secretary-Manager, ERNEST W. ROBINSON, '23
Treasurer, PROF. A. CRAIG BAIRD

The object of the Bates College Debating Council is to stimulate interest in debating and to arrange to conduct class, scholastic, and intercollegiate debates.

All men who have represented Bates College in an intercollegiate debate are automatically members of the council, while all men speaking in a Sophomore Prize Debate are eligible for membership. All members of the Faculty Advisory Committee are considered as members with full privileges of the council.

Besides the officers, the other members for the year 1921-1922 are: Robert B. Watts, '22; J. W. Ashton, '22; Theodore R. Pinckney, '23; Harold C. Burdon, '23; and Herbert R. Carroll, '23.

Bates is fortunate in having a splendid debating reputation which is partly due to scholastic and class debates arranged by the Council, which bring to light debating material that later serve as factors in continuing the high standard already achieved in forensics.

Wednesday night is one of the most enjoyable in the week. The meeting of the Y. W. C. A. makes it so. Y. W. is indeed a Wednesday night institution.

The programs are varied and interesting. The new girls are welcomed at the first meeting; at another tableaux are staged which represent the duties of the various committees; at a third the girls learn of the fun and enthusiasm and spiritual growth gained at Camp Maqua. At all the meetings the willing girl can gain help and strength for the ensuing week.

This year might well be termed an "industrial year." The girls of Lewiston and Auburn who are in industry and the girls of Bates College have many problems in common. Through the united efforts of each group these problems are being mastered. This implies hard work, but not that alone. It implies many good times. There are suppers and sings and talks at the "Blue Triangle." All work and play together.

Through the visiting secretaries and through the U. F. R. (the association's representative at conventions) the local organization is kept in close touch with the policies and accomplishments of the national organization.

The girls of the Bates association have a common purpose: to live as true followers of Jesus Christ. As the sides of our symbolic triangle are complete, so the association tries to strengthen the girls in mind, in body, and in spirit.

Student Volunteer Band

Leader, RAYMOND B. BUKER, '22

Secretary-Treasurer, BEATRICE M. ADAMS, '23

"It is my purpose, if God permits, to become a foreign missionary." Twenty-three Bates men and women who have signed the above declaration make up the Student Volunteer Band. Their missionary duties have begun already with deputation work. The Band at Bates has been organized only since March, 1921. The growth of the organization in the year, with charter members numbering ten, makes a favorable forecast for the following years.

The Commons Committee

Prof. R. R. N. Gould, Faculty

During the year 1921-1922 the Commons Committee has put through a number of changes, all of which have turned out to be wise and beneficial. The biggest change of all and the one which every student partaking of Commons' fare termed a marked improvement over the old system was the change from temporary to permanent waiters. Under the new system permanent waiters are paid by the week and are required to give efficient and satisfactory service, thereby eliminating the hurry-skurry and inefficiency which existed when each diner took a turn at waiting.

Owing to Professor Gould, a better business man than whom does not exist, and Mrs. Hilton, our very capable and thoughtful manager, the Commons has again been successful financially and the food has attained an excellence never before known in the college dining room. Too much cannot be said in regard to the esteem with which Mrs. Stevens is held by the men because of her tireless efforts to make things as congenial as possible.

In the last analysis the success or failure of the Commons depends almost wholly upon the support accorded it by the student body, and therefore the real reason for this year's achievements is told in a nutshell.

In the year 1921, under the management and editorship of the class of 1922, the Bates Student became a real, live, up-to-date college newspaper. For financial reasons the publication of a Student Magazine was suspended, and the management was able to put more time and expense into the weekly news sheet. Hence, more cuts have been reproduced than ever before.

The board strove diligently to make the character of the paper appeal to the students as much as possible. "Joy" numbers kept away the "blues" at mid-years, and a column of jokes, original and otherwise, were in order in nearly every issue. Appropriate "top lines" were a new feature the editorial staff proposed. Still another more important change was the formation of a Woman's Department, with a staff of writers under the direction of a woman editor, to give more complete news of women's activities in the college. Again, especial effort has been made to publish exclusive feature articles dealing with general topics of interest to its readers.

The class of 1922 appreciates the support of the lower classes in the pursuit of this endeavor.

Realizing that the Mirror is the big Bates publication of the year as far as the entire student body and alumni are concerned, and that this year's annual is the indelible record of their deeds and misdeeds for the four years of college life as far as the members of the class of 1922 are concerned, the Board has spared no effort in endeavoring to make the book as comprehensible as possible, and at the same time one that the class of 1922 will be proud to claim as a work of its own.

The purpose of the Mirror, as comprehended by this year's Board, is—first and foremost—to summarize in word and picture the college life throughout the year for the benefit of the students and alumnae in general, and secondly, by means of special emphasis on their particular activities for the four fleeting years of their college career, to give to the members of the graduating class in years to come the ever-present opportunity to live again—in memory—the same old experiences with the same old associations.

With this aim in mind, the editors have done their utmost to make their own particular departments the best possible, displaying withal a splendid spirit of co-operation and harmony. Furthermore, the business manager has left no stone unturned in his efforts to produce a Mirror par excellence.

Bates vs. Oxford

Bates vs. Yale and Univ. of Penn.

Intercollegiate Debating

Bates debating traditions have not suffered any reversals this year. Continuing with its now well established policy of holding only a few debates each year, but of making those few pre-eminent, Bates has met this year Yale and the University of Pennsylvania with the feeling that these two contests would tax the financial resources of the Debating Council to the utmost, challenges from other colleges such as the University of California, University of Idaho, Columbia, and others of like character could not be accepted.

The team which obtained a unanimous decision from Yale on the evening of December 10, 1921, was composed of William E. Young, '24, J. W. Ashton, '22, and Robert B. Watts, '22. Before an audience that left only standing room in Lewiston City Hall, the team argued for the adoption of the Cabinet form of government in the United States. Because of their carefully constructed arguments and their obviously better preparation, the Bates team left no doubts in the minds of the audience as to what the result would be, even while the debate was still young.

The same team is to debate the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia on May 5, 1922. Here they are to discuss the advantages of cancelling the Allied War Debts, with Bates upholding the affirmative. The team is working on this question at the time at which this article is written, and they have confidence that the Bates record shall not be lessened if hard and intensive work will prevent it.

No account of Bates debating would be complete without mention of the work done in the Interscholastic League conducted by the Council. About fifty schools now take part in the debates arranged for the League. Thus Bates influence is spread throughout the State, and a veritable training school for embryonic debaters is maintained. This year Cony High School of Augusta won the cup which the Council presents. They discussed government ownership and operation of the coal mines.

1922 has furnished three varsity debaters. One of these three, Robert B. Watts of Portland, Maine, is undoubtedly the finest debater that the college has produced. He has participated in eight intercollegiate contests, one of them against the Oxford University team at that university. Aurie I. Johnson met Harvard during his Junior year, and this year J. W. Ashton has met Yale and Pennsylvania, as has been said.

Prospects for next year are very bright. 1925 has many promising prospects, who with others from the other classes will be grouped around Young '24, and who will continue to uphold the high standard in debating.

1922 Senior Exhibition

This year the writing of Senior orations was optional. The parts chosen for the exhibition covered a variety of subjects. Prizes were awarded to Lola Mitchell, whose subject was A Dream of Modernness, and to Alexander Mansour, who spoke on Tolerance. Others who spoke were Katherine O'Brien, The Power of Music; William Ashton, With Apologies to Plato; Virginia Mixer, The Continent of Tomorrow; Robert Watts, The Golden Volcano; Eleanor Bradford, The Speech of the Sheik; David Thompson, The Spirit of the Home.

1922 Junior Exhibition

Originality of thought was a dominant feature of the parts selected for the exhibition. Frederica Ineson was awarded first prize for her excellent work on the topic, The Frontier; and David Thompson, whose unique subject was From Life, received second prize. Others who spoke were Georgiana Hayes, Glimpses of the Saco River Country; Harold Manter, Fruits of Victory; Elizabeth Little, The Melody of Silence; Alexander Mansour, The Peril of Intolerance; Daniel Thompson, The Spiritual Inheritance of America; Virginia Mixer, America's Need of Youth; Eleanore Bradford, A Plea for Venizelos; Dorothea Davis, The Key to a Secret Garden; and William Ashton, Drifting.

1924 Prize Debate

On March 7, Sophomore wits scintillated in the annual prize debate. The girls debated the proposition, "Resolved, That the various states adopt courts of industrial relations similar to that of Kansas," with Janice Hoit and Hazel Converse supporting the negative and Louise Bryant and Florence Hodgkins (the alternate for Mildred Lincoln) the affirmative. Laura Warren acted as alternate for the negative.

In the men's debate on "Resolved, That the United States cancel war debts owed to it by the Allied Powers" the negative was presented by Edward Raye and Elton Young with Harold E. Mayo the alternate; while William E. Young, Arthur W. Pollister and Paul Wolynec, alternate, argued for the affirmative. The affirmative team won, and William Young received the individual prize.

1924 Sophomore Prize Speaking

Prizes were awarded Helen Murray for her clever interpretation, At the Concert, and William Young for his oratory in A Defense of College Education. Robertine Howe, who presented The Going of the White Swan, received honorable mention. The remainder of the program consisted of Tommie Candy, Hazel Converse; Protection of American Citizens, Herman Faust; His Soul Goes Marching On, Dorothy Secord; Retributive Justice, Paul Wolynec; Jean Desprey, Louise Bryant; Cutting Tommie's Hair, Florence Day; Americanism, LeRoy Breneman; Citizenship, Erwin Seifert; and The Death Penalty, George Turner.

Freshman Men's Prize Debate

The question utilized for this debate was Resolved, That the Federal Government should own and operate the coal mines of the United States. The affirmative speakers were Adelbert Googins of Portland, Hamilton Bailey of Cedar Grove, and Erwin Canham of Auburn. The negative speakers were Leonard Starbird of Danville, Kenneth Field of Auburn, and Dudley Snowman of Southington, Connecticut. The decision was awarded to the affirmative team and the individual prize to Erwin Canham.

The judges were T. Edward Conley, F. A. Cosgrove, both of Jordan High School, and Angell Mathewson of the college faculty.

1925 Freshman Prize Speaking

The prizes were awarded to Erwin D. Canham, whose selection was Lincoln, the Immortal, and to Gladys J. Leahey, who cleverly delivered Here Comes the Bride. The remainder of the program was as follows: Eleanor Frances Pray, Penrod, Hermon, and Vernon; Frank Sanella, Toussaint L'Ouverture; Dorothy G. Dumais, The Highwayman; John L. Miller, Resistance to Great Britain; Leah Shapiro, The Grand Seignor; Georg Tsung Tse Yeh, The Death Penalty; Raymond B. Bragg, Verdun; Gladys W. Hasty, Knee Deep in June; Mildred S. Stanley, The Overland Mail; Clifford Hagberg, Meagher Defense.

Ivy Ode

Tune: "Auld Lang Syne."

The greatest gift of friend to friend
  Is help and a kindly hand,
Which Bates has giv'n o'er and o'er
  To all her student band.

CHORUS—

Today we plant the ivy green,
  To grow from year to year,
A symbol of our loyalty
  To Alma Mater dear.

Such service true can ne'er be paid
  In terms of life or time;
We can but carry on and on Spirit of Bates sublime.

To Alma Maters o'er the world
  All students pledge their faith,
In gratitude for service given
  The gift of love 'til death.

A symbol of our life to be,
  This ivy green shall grow,
Forever carrying on for Bates
  Our loyal hearts to show.

Ivy Ode

Tune: The End of a Perfect Day

We thank thee for years in thy classic halls,
Alma Mater, our homage we bring;
As the ivy doth twine high upon thy walls,
So to thee will our memory cling.
Thy spirit we'll carry through years to come
Lives of service to God and man,
So our years here with thee will a harvest bear
Deeds of worth in life's brief span.

Thou ivied towers of our college dear,
Oh, symbol of strength and of grace;
Thy Ivy, teach us to persevere,
To aspire to a nobler place.
Thou hast planted a hope in our hearts today
To broaden and grow with thee
Upward, onward our motto will ever be,
Now and through eternity.

OURS ARE THE STARS.

No limit to our thought, unspanned our length of years,
Foolhardy, bold, and young—we know no blinding fears!
Not only does the world hold out to us its powers,
That shall not be our span—the stars are ours!

The flame of youth feeds not on reason, creed, or law;
What care we for the past—the things we never saw!
Who dares to say "Thus far, no farther shalt thou go!"
The flame can not be quenched, unseen it still burns low.

We never can accept the truth from other hands;
Youth must achieve its own—the will within demands!
Our world is not complete till we have lost or won,
We want what we can do—not what the rest have done!

The years of curbing bit no longer can avail,
And fretting, champing youth dreams no such word as fail.
The word to "go" means fate within our own clenched hands,
The only rein—our will; the goal—imagined lands.

We drink the wine of light, of sun, of wind, of rain;
Our eyes ablaze with zeal, we long for test or pain.
The satisfaction earned from striving is his prize.

Unchecked, youth must push on, to hush that inner cry;
What heart could stand and watch—ah, that would be to die!
No end shall come in sight, no world our pathway bars;
Straight onward must we go—Ours are the stars!

Greek Play, Agamemnon

On the evening of Class Day, June twentieth, the Senior class will present, under the guidance of Professor Grosvenor M. Robinson, The Agamemnon of Æschylus. The new translation by Murray will be used. This drama is perhaps the most awesome and majestic tragedy yet enacted on the campus.

As the play opens, a watchman stands on the roof of Agamemnon's palace watching the glimmer of fire, the signal of Argos set on Trojan hills to proclaim the downfall of that doomed city. As he watches, a triumphant cry is heard. Lights appear on the altar, for Clytemnestra, the Queen, has seen the signal. A traitorous woman, to the court she portrays faithful love for the King, and joy that Greece has taken Troy, but in her heart she nourishes a secret passion for Aigisthos and bitter hatred for Agamemnon. She feigns rejoicing when in triumph the war chariots bring the victors home. In implicit trust Agamemnon enters the palace with his wife; but not so Cassandra, a captive phophetess of Troy. Homeless and believed by none, she foretells lust, murder, and war. Hardly has she entered the palace when the cry of treason is heard—Clytemnestra has murdered the King and Prophetess. With a wild pæan of triumph the Queen celebrates her long-sought-for revenge of the King's cruel murder of their child, Aigisthos; the lover, with his retinue of soldiers, joins the triumphs. Agamemnon's men draw their swords, but Clytemnestra, now all woman, ends the tragedy with a passionate plea for peace.

Phi Beta Kappa

The Gamma of Maine Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was installed at Bates on May 29, 1917. The granting to Bates of a charter in this distinguished fraternity has been considered one of the highest academic honors conferred upon the College. The long and honorable history of the fraternity, the strict conditions of membership, and the extended roll of honored members make election into its membership one of the eagerly sought goals of the student's career. In many institutions the election into Phi Beta Kappa is considered the premier honor in the undergraduate course.

The conditions of membership are scholarship, character, and promise of future attainment. Other things being equal the students attaining highest scholastic rank are elected to membership. The by-laws of the Gamma Chapter permit the election of ten per cent. of the Senior class. It often happens that the full quota of Seniors is not elected, in which event it is expected that other members of the class, who in later years become distinguished in their life work, will be elected to membership.

The election of members takes place as soon after the opening of the second semester as is practicable. When the Bates Chapter was installed it seemed advisable to elect graduates up to and including the class of 1907. Consequently the Chapter has each year elected not only Seniors but a delegation from the "ten-year class."

On March 20, 1922, the following members were elected from the class of 1922:

John William Ashton
Eleanore Rae Bradford
Clarence Allen Forbes
Grace Palmer Gould
Izetta Elizabeth Lidstone
Harold Winfred Manter

The powerful position which Bates holds in the debating world is well shown by her remarkable dominance of the East, coupled with her world-famous innovation of a debate at Oxford, England. Within the college, these forensic forces are centered in the only Maine chapter of Delta Sigma Rho, national debating fraternity.

Membership in this body is highly limited, with election going only to those men who have proved their worth in rigid intercollegiate contests. The gold key of the initiate is the highest honor which a debater can attain, and serves as a pledge of forensic distinction known the world over.

The Bates chapter of Delta Sigma Rho numbers over fifty brothers, with several representatives among the college faculty. The fraternity takes active interest in the whole field of debating, and provides a cup emblematic of the championship of forty-two secondary schools in Maine. Its influence is particularly centered on intercollegiate forensics, as it seeks to develop 'Varsity debaters worthy of key and college.

The annual spring initiations will bring the coveted honor of membership to J. William Ashton, '22, and William E. Young, '24.

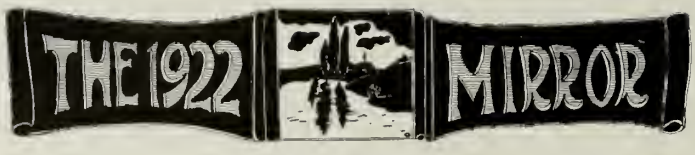
One victory, three defeats, and three tie games, is the information that the score-book gives about the Bates football team for the fall of 1921. However, to the persons who witnessed these games the quality of the team is measured not by the scores, but by its spirit and pluck. Judged by these criterions, Bates has never had a more successful season. Imbued with the spirit of its coach, the team fought gamely against odds, and maintained its fighting spirit in the face of defeat.

On September 24th, the football world was astonished to hear that the Bates team had held the powerful Yale eleven to a score of 28 points. It was still more surprised when, on the following Saturday, it heard that this same team had defeated Tufts 14 to 10.

Bates played its first home game on October 8th, when it held the Massachusetts "Aggies" to a scoreless tie. As this was the last game before the State series, the following week was spent in preparing for the Colby game, which, it was thought, would be the hardest of the series.



The State Series

On the morning of October 15th the Bates team, followed by a large body of loyal rooters, invaded Waterville, the stronghold of Colby College. The afternoon witnessed a battle which will go down in football history. On a dry, dusty field, under a scorching sun, the two teams battled valiantly, now one team having a slight advantage and now the other. After a fight which exhausted both of the teams, the game ended in a 7 to 7 tie.

On the following Saturday the Maine team, with a large body of supporters, visited Bates. Again it was a battle between two teams which were evenly matched, and each was determined that the other should not win. Again the score ended in a 7 to 7 tie.

Owing to the inability to agree on a date, the game between Bowdoin and Bates was not played. By defeating Maine and Colby, Bowdoin claimed the championship of the State, but there were many fans, who had witnessed the playing of both Bates and Bowdoin, who believed that Bowdoin had not a clear right to the title, and, by refusing to play Bates, forfeited that right entirely.

The Post-Series Games

The Saturday following the Maine game New Hampshire State came to Lewiston. Bates battled gamely against "Dutch" Connors and his huskies from Durham, but went down to defeat by a score of 14 to 0.

The next Saturday Bates ended her season at Worcester by holding the strong Holy Cross team to 28 points.

Much of the credit for the showing made by the team is due to the character of the men themselves, to the coach who instilled his own spirit into the men, and also in no small measure to the "subs" and second team, who day by day went out on the field to share the hardship, but not the glory of the " 'Varsity."

Bates started off the nineteen twenty-two season with five veterans and a wealth of new material. It is too early in the season to predict the result, but certainly the caliber of the team should not be judged by its early games. When the team gets working together it will put out a brand of ball that will not be easy to beat.

It has been many years since Bates has had as strong a pitching staff as it has this year. Captain Spiller is going strong. "Hap" Price, one of the new men, is tossing them over in a manner that shows he deserves his "prep" school reputation. "Peanut" Hamilton, the diminutive Freshman southpaw, has a way of shooting them across that leaves the batter helpless. Everett Woodman and Benny Lewia, both first year men, are pitching a brand of ball which should earn them a place on the team. Bob Partridge continues to risk his life behind the bat, stopping the fast ones which these "aces" put over, and his whip down to second is a source of dismay to all of his opponents.

The position at first is being contended for by the Jordan brothers with "Kippie," senior, having a slight advantage. Kippie earned a reputation for himself last year as a hitter, and we expect to see him again knocking down the fences this season.

Joe Cogan is at second again this year and is stopping everything that comes his way. And besides this Joe can be depended upon to do some good work for the team with the bat. Daker is holding down the hot corner in good shape while Dimlick is getting the fast ones at short. Both of these boys are Freshmen but they are already shaping up like 'Varsity material. They field well and also give a good account of themselves with the stick.

Bill Kennelly is the only veteran in the outfield, but with such men as Rowe, Maynard Moulton, Kenny and Dagnino trying for positions, the outer gardens will be well looked after. Rowe has already showed himself to be a good hitter, Moulton has had considerable experience and is sure to be a big asset to the team, while Kenny and Dagnino, both being fast men, can cover a lot of ground.

In "Doc" Moulton we have a valuable utility man. "Doc" can play any position and play it as it should be played. Although he is not eligible this year because of the one year rule, we expect great things of him in the future.

PATRIOT'S DAY GAME

Bates bowed to Bowdoin in the Patriot's Day exhibition game by a score of 6-1. It was the initial appearance of the Bates ball-tossers on the diamond this season while Bowdoin had already played several games.

Captain Spiller started the game in the box and showed fine control. Not a Bowdoin man received a walk with Lee pitching. The second inning was a bad one for the Garnet, Bowdoin scoring three runs on bunched hits, a passed ball and two errors. In both the first and second innings Bates had two men on the bases, but both times failed to tally. In the third inning Needleman scored for Bowdoin on an error.

"Peanut" Hamilton went to the mound in the fourth and for two innings held the opposing batters hitless and scoreless. In the fourth inning Kenny, playing for Moulton, singled, stole two bases, and was driven home by Bob Partridge. The fifth inning was featured by a double play. Dimlick pulled a line drive from the air and Morrell was caught off second by Cogan.

"Hap" Price took the rubber in the sixth. With two men on Handy dropped the ball into deep field for a triple. Price tightened up and no more runs were scored. The final score was six to one in favor of Bowdoin.

The schedule of first team games for the season is as follows:

April 19	Bowdoin Exhibition	Home	May 18	M. A. C.	Amherst
April 22	Lewiston Eagles	Home	May 19	Conn. Aggies	Storrs
April 29	Lunn & Sweet	Home	May 20	New Hampshire State	Durham

Immediately after the opening of college a large number of recruits reported to Coach Jenkins for Cross Country. The number of candidates was probably the largest in years. This group included seven veterans, Captain Buker, Batten, Clifford, Holt, Kimball, Perkins, and Rich. These men, together with "Cyk" McGinley, and other men of unlimited endurance, gave Cross Country a brilliant aspect.

As the season progressed the fighting spirit of the team became more and more manifest. The Bates "Harriers" ran over the long "Pole Hill Course" day after day, with tireless energy. With the expert training of Coach Jenkins, a Cross Country team was developed of which any college might well be proud.

The Maine Intercollegiate Cross Country Run came on November 4th at Orono. On the forenoon of this date about four inches of sleet fell. If you know, or have heard, of this course, you can form a vague conception of the tremendous handicap to be overcome. "Standpipe Hill," with its natural covering of shale rock, together with the sleet, was indeed a "Man Killer." In spite of the unfavorable conditions our champion, Ray Buker, finished half a lap ahead of the next man, running the last mile with only one shoe on. "Cyk" McGinley came "tearing" down to the finish line in fourth place, the first time he had run in competition. With the same undaunted Bates spirit the remainder of the men finished in the following order: Kimball 7, Holt 8, Clifford 15, and Batten and Rich finishing close but not being counted in the team score. Bates won with the score of 35, while the University of Maine came next with 41.

After gaining the championship at the Maine meet the team took the trail for Boston and the New England meet the following Saturday. The run here was over a rolling course and very different from that at Orono. A field of thirteen colleges entered and Bates was forced to content herself with third place. The Bates spirit was never more eloquently displayed than when our men finished this gruelling race. Every man was utterly exhausted. They had given their all for Bates.

Such was the spirit of our Cross Country team. No college was ever represented by a more "gamey," more sportsman-like group of men. Much of the credit for the marked success of the team is due to Coach Jenkins. By working faithfully with these men he developed a team with the true Bates spirit, a spirit which led them to fight clear through to the last.

The Penn Relay Carnival

Hats off again to our wonderful track captain, without doubt the greatest two-miler in the country. He repeated his stellar performance of last year and again won the International Two Mile Race at the Penn Relay Carnival against the best men the country had to offer. By winning this event two years in succession Buker, our sturdy captain, has made a record of which any track man would be proud, and a record in which Bates people everywhere will glory. During the first part of his race Buker held back and let the other men set the pace. On the last turn he "opened up" and passed the few leaders in a way we know so well. Sprinting down the last stretch he won easily, again raising the reputation of "the Garnet," and again bringing the name of our Alma Mater to the notice of the public.

Along with this success "Old Faithful" rang out the victory of the relay team at this same carnival. Corey, running as our first man, got away well and passed all but two of his opponents. Batten came next and overtook one of the two men in the lead, leaving only one man for Sannella to pass, which he easily did. Archibald, starting ahead of the field, ran a whirlwind race and increased his lead, easily winning for Bates. To the four men, Batten, '23, Corey, '25, Sannella, '25, and Archibald, '25, who composed the team, should be given credit for long hours of hard work, first on the boards and later on the cinders, for without this work they could never have achieved their remarkable success.

The Dual Meet with New Hampshire

Another victory was added to our already successful year on May sixth, and although the score was close, 63½ to 62½, it was none the less a victory of which we should be proud. For the first time in six years the track team of New Hampshire State College met defeat in a dual meet, and that, too, on their own track.

The meet was a thriller from start to finish. While Bates appeared weak in the field events, she was especially strong in the races, and this balance kept both teams always within a few points of each other.

The feature of the afternoon was the quarter mile race. Archibald was set back a yard at the start and it was Simpson who pushed the New Hampshire man on the first turn. The tall State captain, however, gained the lead and, cheered on by the New Hampshire men in the stands, stretched out for the finish. But they had not reckoned with our Archibald, the little Bates man, who picked up on the back stretch, passed the leader, and disappointed the home crowd by winning the event, and incidentally equalling the track record.

Landers was the only man to gain two first places, winning both the 100 and 220-yard dashes. All three places were garnered by Bates in the two mile, and the first two in the mile, with McGinley and Sargent leading respectively. Burrill tied for first in the high hurdles and gained our single point in the pole vault. Batten, after placing in the quarter, won the broad jump. Although Captain Buker only took second and third in the mile and two mile he ran with his men and coached them through the entire race. This was one of the best exhibitions of team work ever seen in a race of any kind. When Ross took second place in the hammer throw he brought our total up equal to the New Hampshire score. This left the discus throw as the last event and the one which would decide the meet. Luce came through with a heave of 112.05 feet and this gave us just enough to win the meet.

While the men deserve credit for the fine work they have done, it would not have been possible to secure such results without patient coaching from one who knows the game, and Coach Jenkins is one who does know it from A to Z, and can produce victories.

The State Meet is scheduled for next Saturday, May 13th, at Waterville, and the Garnet's chances to win are excellent. In fact, as far as track events are concerned, Bates is conceded to be the class of the State. With the help of a few points from field events, the championship ought to be ours. At any rate, if it doesn't snow a couple of feet, Buker and Archibald will break a couple of State records.

All indications point to a banner year in track. Following the State Meet: May 20, New England Meet at Worcester; May 26-27, Intercollegiates at Cambridge; June 17, N. C. A. A. at Chicago.

The Squad

Ten candidates reported the first day for the tennis team. Practice is held in the gym on rainy days where the men gain experience in serving. The quality of work points toward a successful season. Several experienced men are available while the Freshman material is unusually good.

Captain Eddie Roberts will doubtless be the mainstay and his record is such that a good deal may be expected from him this spring. Ed won the interscholastic singles at Bowdoin in 1918 and was on the team that won the doubles in 1919. In college he won the Freshman Tournament, and he and LeSieur were runners up in doubles in the State Tournament at the U. of M. He also showed up well in the Twin City Tournament.

Elwood Ireland is the other valuable letter man this spring. He was in the finals in doubles some years ago. Last spring he and Carl Purinton played together and they may team it up again this year. Dave Thompson is also going well this spring.

Of the Freshmen candidates George Yeh is without doubt the best man so far, although McKenna has a good record and is going strong.

The first few weeks are given entirely to doubles practice, after which the elimination singles will be played. The tennis team has a busy season ahead, for besides the matches noted on the schedule there is to be a dual meet with Bowdoin. Other matches are a dual meet with Colby, one with Wesleyan, the State Meet, and the New England Tournament at Longwood.

Bates 1, Bowdoin 0, was the successful result of the opening game of the season. The Garnet men shot for the Bowdoin cage time after time only to see the puck stopped by the clever goal tender.

The next game was with the St. Dominique team and resulted in a 4 to 0 victory for Bates. The Garnet showed real team work and kept the puck almost continually in their opponents' territory.

One of the strongest aggregations in this section of the country was our next rival, and while the Berlin team carried off the honors by defeating Bates 7 to 1, they themselves said that Bates was harder to score against than any team they had so far played.

Next came a trip to West Point, Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst and Yale. The last three games were each lost by a margin of two points while the strong West Point team came out ahead with a score of 4 to 1.

The Portland Country Club, which up to this time was considered the best team in the State, was the next team to fall before the Garnet "Ice Birds," by a score of 4 to 1. The Lewiston Independents were next downed by a score of 6 to 0, and the St. Dominique team was twice defeated, the first time by a score of 10 to 0 and the next time by the narrow margin of 2 to 1.

The climax of the season came when the Garnet team defeated Colby at the Winter Sports Carnival at Augusta by a score of 4 to 2. This game was for the championship of the State of Maine, and as champion, Bates was presented with a magnificent silver cup. A week later Bates defeated Colby on our own rink by a score of 7 to 0.

Five times a date for a game with Bowdoin was arranged and each time a storm interfered; so a second game was never played with the team from Brunswick.

The 1921-22 basketball season was opened by a trip out of the State; the Garnet losing two games—one to Rhode Island State after a bitter struggle, and the other to Harvard in the Crimson team's own home town of Cambridge. This was the first of three trips out of the State during the season. Notable games on the last two trips were those in which Bates beat Tufts and Clark University.

A surprise was sprung when after losing to the fast University of Maine team on the Lewiston floor, the Garnet journeyed to Orono the next week and defeated the University five on their home surface by a large score. Also Bates helped Colby start its season right by a victory over the Waterville team in the Colby gym.

Bill Perkins was easily the star of the Bates quintet. The All New England Scholastic Center of 1920-21 from Morse High shot 64 baskets from the floor, more than three times as many as the next highest scorer on the team. And it is from ability to score from the floor that a team gets its punch, although points from the foul line do help out. Perkins' most noteworthy feat was accomplished on the last trip to Massachusetts when in the game with Clark University he scored 27 points out of the Bates' total of 35. The Clark team was on the losing end with 20 points.

Captain Davis, too, played a wonderful game against Clark, giving the best exhibition of guarding seen on the Worcester surface during the entire season. Davis also ranks second in the number of field goals scored during the year. The work of Luce was exceptionally strong on the defensive. Kempton's shooting from the foul line was of high calibre. Wilson, Johnson, and Woodman put up a scrappy game. The past season makes only the second year of basketball as a 'Varsity sport at Bates, and all indications point to a championship team in the near future.

Garnet Relay

B. A. A. Victors

Saturday night, February 4th, the Bates Relay Team, composed of Batten, Buker, Sannella and Archibald, came through in grand style by defeating the University of Vermont men in the annual B. A. A. meet held at the Boston Arena.

Archie, running anchor for the Garnet, sped by his Vermont opponent, and literally flew over the last quarter, racing to victory with a margin of ten yards. Buker, the most versatile runner ever to enter college, showed a clean pair of heels to his opponents, and Batten and Sannella proved to be fitting teammates for the two stars. The fastest Bates Relay Team for many years.

The Bates College Outing Club is by far the largest organization on the campus. The success of the club is measured, not only by its large and enthusiastic membership, but also by the great diversity of its activities.

Long before the first snow of the year a new supply of skiis and snowshoes was put in order for the use of the members of the club. These, together with the toboggans which are owned by the club, were in constant use during the winter months.

The club has adopted two new policies. Before this year the women had not been represented on the board of directors, but for the season of 1921-1922 six women, selected from the three upper classes, held positions on the board. Another new policy is that of having the board of directors elected annually by a direct vote of the Outing Club members. Previously the board was self-perpetuating, but now the members are elected by a popular vote of the entire club membership, the members of each class voting only for representatives from their class.

Another innovation which the club hopes to be able to follow up more in the future than it has in the past was the rental of a cabin during the winter months. The cabin used this year was located at No Name Pond. This is about five miles from the college across country, and about two miles from the car line, furnishing an ideal destination for snowshoe and skii hikes.

The club has consistently aimed to "Boost Bates." The carnival, which this year came on February 9th, 10th, and 11th, was a feature which advertised the college in a way which appeals to "people." The carnival opened with snowshoe and skii races on the first afternoon. The contestants enjoyed the spills as much as those on the side lines. More races and a baseball game on snowshoes came on the next afternoon. Three umpires were used during the game, the first two ending beneath a pile of arms, legs, snowshoes, and grins. The skating races came Saturday, and in these races the Juniors won enough additional points to repeat their victory of last year, again winning the meet.

The first evening was taken up with a hockey game against Portland Country Club. Friday evening the first carnival dance was held and helped greatly in making the carnival a success. The delightfully decorated hall was crowded and every one had a most wonderful time. The skating party came Saturday evening and formed a fitting climax for the three-day carnival. In spite of bad weather during the late afternoon, the rink was attractively decorated. A band furnished music for skating, and together with the galaxy of fancy costumes formed a mass of sight and sound well worth going far to see.

The next variation of the club came when a team of ten men was sent to Augusta to compete at the winter sports carnival. Here our team won three of the five races and took second in the other two. We were, however, forced to content ourselves with second place in the meet, losing to Maine because we were unable to take any points in the skii jumping event.

The annual hike to Mount Washington was taken last year by about thirty men, all of whom enjoyed the trip. This year we hope that even more will go.

These activities well illustrate the versatility of the Bates College Outing Club. The club now comprises about 90 per cent. of the entire student body; it is still growing; it will carry on; and it will become more and more a vital factor at Bates and continue to "Boost the College."

Athletics have always held a dominant position in the life of Bates women. The spirit and enthusiasm shown at all inter-class contests seems to have grown from year to year, and now the field of athletics is holding a more important place than ever before.

The regulation of all the women's athletics is under the direction of the Athletic Board, composed of the President, Vice-President, Secretary, and two advisors, Miss Niles and Miss Davies, together with the managers of the various sports, and a Sophomore representative. The Board has acted upon several matters of importance this year, and has been very efficient in carrying out its regular work. A new regulation, especially noteworthy, is that one whereby each girl pays a definite amount annually for athletic dues—part of which goes to her own organization, and the remainder to the men's association. This payment entitles the girls to season tickets for all the intercollegiate games throughout the year. The plan was designed to help the men's association by giving it a larger and more definite sum each year, and at the same time to create a greater enthusiasm among the girls for the men's collegiate athletics. Thus far, the arrangement has proved very satisfactory and is a decided improvement over the old system.

Another achievement of the Board has been the creation of new restrictions in training rules and the more rigid enforcement of all the rules, which now makes the earning of stripes more difficult than ever before.

In the fall, organized hiking was instituted for those who were not interested in hockey, and many girls earned whole and half stripes after completing the required work.

Several invitations for hockey and basketball games have been received from colleges and normal schools. However, it has always been feared that such a departure from our present system of inter-class athletics would not create such enthusiasm or help as many girls as do the present regulations.

The class of 1921 presented a beautiful silver cup to the association last spring. This is eventually to belong to the class holding the highest number of points for two consecutive years.

The class of 1922 has been well represented in all the inter-class contests throughout the four years. We hold an enviable record in basketball, having played in every championship game, and having won two first team and two second team championships. The winning of the championship game in our Sophomore year was perhaps the most notable of our victories.

Rosalia Knight has distinguished herself in our class by winning the highest number of stripes in athletics during the four years. She will doubtless be the possessor of the cup which goes to the girl earning twenty-two stripes. A similar cup has not been won for many years.

Though our class may not have been victorious in every contest, it has always tried to play a clean game and to be a good loser when overtaken by defeat. We hope that we may be remembered, not merely as victors, but as sincere supporters of all that makes for true sportsmanship.

Nothing but The Truth

Star Dust and Comets' Tails

Tallest—We are noted for our sky-scrapers. There are Maggie and Phil. They're so tall, there's no doubt about it. Sylvester might be mentioned. Betty may be Little, but—

Greatest Grind—Page Aris Forbes of the Monastery. He's always in his room when he's nowhere else. He's always at his desk when he's in his room. Q. E. D. Harold Manter is another candidate. Some of the girls are reputed to study hard. Page Wimersburger and Gould.

Best Dresser—Kaye Whittier is our Parisienne. Carl Penny and Maurice Earle are said to read Vanity Fair. We can't forget that Kottie Hanscom always gets herself up pretty special. Others might be mentioned on occasions.

Most Efficient—There was not much difficulty in selecting our most efficient girl after Zet began to work in the library. If Ruth Cullens and Hazel Luce had also had libraries in which to work, they might not have been tied for second place. By the wholesale process of elimination, Ashton is the peer of all male contestants. That's why THE MIRROR is so good this year. Watts receives honorable mention in this department.

Rand Hall Pests—Strange they're all men. There's a whole quartet of them. Sometimes they give a concert, sometimes a solo. Whiting is the leader in the quartet. Roland, Aurie, and Mac have had considerable experience since they made their debut. Some of the other fellows may be disappointed.

Biggest Eater—The boys are almost unanimous for "Dec" Coombs. The girls thought Kimball could clean off the table. If there were nothing but prunes on it, the girls are right. It takes a lot of Rand Hall cooking to keep "Sailor" Knight in athletics, and it is rumored that Georgianna's board bill would be larger on the cafeteria system.

Best Shifter—Our class has been divided on different issues many times. The latest division is into Shifters and Anti-shifters. Maynard Moulton is said to be the most prolific Shifter, while Rounds and Kelley are developing into good material in other ways. Helen Richardson and Ruth Cullens are the shining lights among the shiftresses, though we don't blame either of them very much.

Best Musician—This is Homer Bryant's other name. "K" O'Brien can compose most anything on the scale. "Floppy" Fernald is another clever organ-grinder. The Chase Hall piano will miss "Dave" Thompson at the movies next year.

Most Talented—Who said that genius was two per cent. inspiration and ninety-eight per cent. perspiration? Edison, of course. Well, Eleanor Bradford is sure the she-genius and Harold Manter the he-genius of our class. Inspiration? They have the two per cent. and then some. Determination to push a thing through? You bet. Watch Eleanor making stage scenery, costuming, or writing. And Harold is a wizard in the lab. Hunt for the modest letters, H. W. M. on some of the drawings in this book. When it comes to Hawaiian comedies, he has all the other dramatists scun a mile.

Most Sophisticated—Carl French pulled the most votes for the men. For the girls, Dot Manser won a plurality of one over Kaye Whittier and Dot Holt. Ha! Some of us know the ways of the world—even way up in Maine!

Best Optimist—Who has the Sunny Jimmie smile? Who has the Sunny Jimmie voice? Who has the Sunny Jimmie whistle? Elwood Ireland, of course. Within the precincts of Rand Hall, Dot Davis holds the patent for true blue optimism. Here's happiness for both.

Class Babies—Bennie Buote and Frances Minot are the youngest in years. Close your eyes and see them cooing in their perambulators! Of course, we couldn't omit "Baby Ireland" from our infant list.

Quietest—Stickney is the quietest man and Walden the quietest woman. But let me tell you something. Ask Marj how she liked the Harvard prom. She'll talk fast enough. Just get Stick started on compulsory chapel attendance, and there will be some noise, hey, Stick?

Man-hater—Some people say there ain't no such thing. Perhaps not, but Dot Holt and Maud Hayward had a few votes. Harold Manter was well remembered as a woman hater. Oh, Harold, how little they know you! It is all based on your remark that it made you—" 'er feel 'er rather queer" to enter Rand Hall. Girls, Harold does not hate you, but you are not the right size. He can't find a girl his height or shorter. That's the truth. Oh 'arold!

Mischief Maker—Carl Penny, ooooh! you little joker! Satan's not behind you—but with you, eh? No bubbles in your think-tank when it comes to diviltry! Helen Waddell, how many practical jokes have you perpetrated on the Twinnies and Kottie? How about the Spiritualist meeting? Hush—keep it dark!

Sleepy Heads—Carl French again wins the concrete hose. It is a well known fact that Kimmie was once, but now he has "woke up." Viv Wills is always napping, although she never went to sleep in Monie's English class as Helen Harriman was once known to do.

Shortest—Alex Mansour and Eleanor Yeaton win the election. Not much question about it. No one seemed to stand a show with these two running on the ticket. Bigger majority than the Democrats ever received in Lewiston.

Best Dancers—Doris Traver and Maurice Earle can trip the light fantastic in a way that fascinates the class. You win; we'll hand you the berries. Whittier and Buote sure can shake a wicked hip. But we haven't had much time to practice, you know. Dancing at Bates is in the incubator stage.

Chapel Cutter—No danger of Nola losing her job as long as Helen Waddell is in college. And from the election we judge that Nola makes out chapel warnings for a good majority of our dear old classmates. The seats of Herling, Rounds, and Kelley are often vacant.

Movie Fiend—Maybe it's "Over the Hills" to weep, or "On Toonerville Road" to laugh—anyway, Walden is ready for the trip. You'll find Kid Allen, Cille Goding, and Maurice chasing along, too. This quartet sure does swell the coffers, yea bo!

Class Vamp—Whittier wins hands down. Seems to be little question about it. Bradford puts up a weak protest, however. The cruel heart-breaking men are many. The boys vote for Bryant, but the girls are strong for Penny—what every woman knows.

Time Killers—Railroad would stop his engine if he could see Holt and Penny while away the time. You win the election, classmates, but there are competitors at your heels. Time flies when Hanscom and French dream.

Noisiest—Although one of the boys declared there was no choice among the women, Rand Hall voted strong for Goding. No need for a rising bell while you're around, Cille. Kelley and French ran neck to neck for the noisiest among the boys. Frenchie's war whoop won the race, but we must say Tom's a noisy kid.

Most Brilliant—"Twinkle, twinkle, little stars, how I wonder who you are?" Bradford and Manter—gleaming, scintillating, effulgent! No doubt about it, the kids are clever. Of course, we can never forget O'Brien and Thompson. On the whole we are a pretty brilliant class.

Best Sport—Glad Dearing flashes under the wire as the best sport. Billie and Tid show up well. The girls seem somewhat dubious as to how the boys should be lined up, Rollo Ross and Mistah Earle being only mentioned so infrequently as to raise suspicion.

Who Kids the Profs—The gang must have been thinking of Monie's class when they handed Carl Rounds and Virginia Mixer biggest prof kidders. We know that Bill Ashton played with Goosie all the year in a most disgraceful manner. Someone pulled a bright remark that the Wyman twins fooled them all. We're with you, Twinnies!

Peppiest—Glad and Mac come in for their rightful due here. Heaps of grit and peppy stuff, we'll say. Even Doc Britan, Mac, says you lead the cheering gracefully, and Glad Dearing sure keeps things stirring.

Jazz Hounds—Maurice Earle of Litchfield is conceded to be the greatest jazz hound. We fear his days are over, though. Kelley runs Maurice a close second. Helen Coombs is right there at every dance, and always knows the latest from New York.

Best Athlete—Rosy Knight walked away with the loving cup awarded the best girl athlete without a murmur from anyone. Moulton had to fight for the boys' cup, however, as Leroy tagged close behind with Ray Buker at his heels.

Best Line—John William and Eleanor Bradford were conceded to be the mighty toreadors or linesmen. Just give Ashton a tiny tip, and he can enlarge for hours. Eleanor, being a girl and brilliant—ca va sans dire. There are many who back the Watts and Rounds combine.

Best Looking—The world knows we are a very beautiful class. Leroy takes the niche in the Figure Eight as the original Arrow Collar man. Kottie Hanscom gets the front page on the Cosmopolitan. Dot Longley and Cut Plug Penny have ardent admirers.

Best Orator—Watts was the feller who put the bate(s) in debate. Yea, his stirring eloquence has been known to move even the cold heart of our austere Prexy. Orpheus with his lyre could not do better. Virginia Mixer's dramatic appeal on June 18, 1921—"We need young men"—has put her on the Bates map as the class orator among the girls. Smith and Dearing are skillful in wagging the silver tongue, also.

Most Popular—"He is a laddie, the girls all declare." Oh Russell, we should never dare to tell you half the nice things they say about you. For winning a whole heap of regard from all his classmates, Russell sure gets the laurels. Everyone just can't resist "B" Clark's cherubic smile and subtle wit. On the other hand, MacLean, Rossy, and Fieneman seem to be liked pretty much, too.

Best Disposition—Norman Ross just oozes good nature. But even at that he put Colebrook on the map. 'Nuff said, Rossy? Although the boys seem to doubt as to the quality of disposition among the girls, everyone is sure that Mavorette would smile through the combine of a tripe breakfast, liver lunch, and frankfort dinner. Vivian Wills, Beatrice Clark, and Bennie Buote are pretty sure to meet you with the same good nature.

Greatest Borrower—"Who's got a handkerchief?" "You wouldn't mind if I took your reading lamp this evening?" "You don't think you'd better go out and wear your best coat, do you?" That's Glad. Funny, how she pulled all the girls' votes! Speaking of boys, there's Avery who borrowed Grace.

Favorite Chaperones—Birdie and Nilesy do give us the best time. Birdie's a wonder at tucker, you know. Then we never can forget that we always come away liking the Leonards, while if we want a real time, there are Ireland and family. Yea, chaps!

Greatest Philosophers—O'Brien is deep. Just talk to her sometime. She'll tell you how your synopses work when you cut chapel, and what love is, and—well, she has Mr. Freud scun a mile. Chamberlain likes to analyze for the public good; while it would do your heart good to hear Freddie on one of her tirades. Oh! we're some thinkers as a class. No hiatus in our perspicacities—eh, Maggie?

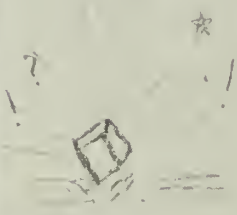
Since Dancing Came To Bates



Creeping Into Print

As a college, we need many things passionately. We pang for a new gymnasium, we thirst for a swimming pool, we hunger for Commons that aren't common. We feel a passionate urge for a girls' dorm, a golf course, music hall, art galleries, statues, gates, out-door divans, a Mrs. Chase Hall, observatories, conservatories, aquariums, a mystic Palace of Terpsichore. We'd like to wake up some morning to find them all new arrivals. But those who know about such things say our wants are frightfully expensive and that it will take a long, long time before we'd ever get them all. So we thought maybe we'd have something cheaper first, and somebody thought of a totem. You see, totems are real inexpensive, the only price being brains—and, of course, we have just loads of those. Lots of us, steaming up our little think-tanks, have had some mighty bright ideas, but we've never dared tell Prexie about them, they're so sort of personal. Once in a while, however, such things have a way of creeping into print—for instance, like this:

Food for Thought

Rand Hall dining room.

The stage manager must take great care in creating the atmosphere. A long room is discovered with three regular rows of tables. Each table is set for light (eaters?). The conventional service is employed—a knife, fork, and two spoons—but thick white mugs grace the side of each plate. Realism—an atmospheric touch explained by tumbler breakage on the part of our kitchen scullions. Especially does this tragedy occur when the Senior class meetings are held directly after lunch. We hope that the property man will not furnish napkins. At Rand these are accessories furnished only to guests. Realism again.

Off stage a great commotion is heard. The doors are unlocked and femininity floods the dining room. Enter the Seniors. Some are arm in arm. Others are so exuberantly girlish that they very indecorously (?) embrace. Thus feature Frank and Virginia.

Virginia: Who won, you or the Kid?

Frances (mournfully): Oh, Stanley, but I almost beat him. He only ate fifteen bananas and I ate fourteen.

The rest of the conversation is lost, but we'll wager it was well sprinkled with "Rats!" and "Prunes!"

Elsewhere Al Parsons has captured a table for "the bunch." Feature shrill orders and violent beckonings.

Al: Cottie!! COTTIE!! Tid! Muriel! Cottie! COTTIE HANSCOM! !!! !?!

The Seniors placed, enter the rabble—pushing, grabbing, shouting. A hush! There sweeps into the room the lady faculty—five in number except when Miss Niles positively can't stand the noise any longer.

The next situation can be changed to suit the temper of the audience. Silent (?) Grace(?) is the easiest to stage; but there is danger that the supernumeraries left back center will talk or drop the plate—pardon—the silverware. If the cast has good voices, the blessing may be sung. It is best to have Zet Lidstone start this, and then one is sure that the harmony is correct.

With the actors seated, the audience will please place their attention on the table center-front. One chair is empty, the others being occupied by six Seniors and a Freshman.

Margaret R. (a Freshman): Fish again! Bill said we'd have fish. (Fingers a gold medal.)

Helen Waddell (keenly interested): How curious! Why—!! You know I—er—always considered him extremely aetherid!

Margaret R. (rallying): But he is! He knows poetry 'n'—

Billie F.: I say, Glad, why so dressed up?

Glad (raising eyebrows): I attend a committee meeting tonight!

Billie: Aw! Cut the comedy!

Dot H.: Seems to me these committee meetings are mighty hard on one's clothes!

Glad: Hugh! I'm not the only one! Look at Doris!!

Doris (blushing): Well, you see, Mr. J. is——

Billie (with a giggle): My Mike is coming over, too.

Doris: Well, I declare, there is no spoon to serve the potato with, and the sauce dishes for tomatoes are missing; but then, I suppose that one must be glad one has——

Helen W.: Mugs!

Glad (excitedly): I'm so afraid they're going to put me down as class vamp!

Betty: Who do you think is the best-looking fellow?

Glad (promptly): Al Burgess!

Billie: Aw gwan!

Margaret R.: Don't you think Bill——

Glad (trying to look tragic): But really, girls, you don't think I'm the class vamp? Doris, you won't put me down, will you?

Doris (hesitating): Well, no—but really, this is too much!

Glad (somewhat hastily): Who are you going to put down, Doris?

Dot Holt: Well, what does this mean, Dot? Another trip to Brunswick?

Dot D. (slipping into vacant chair): You make me sick! No, never mind about sending for fish, sweetie. One has found from one's experience that fish doesn't make one fat.

Glad Dearing (pleadingly): Dot, you don't think I'm the class vamp, do you?

Margaret R.: Bill says——

Betty (quickly): Did you hear the joke Dutchie sprung in German? A man was asked why he drank out of the saucer, and he said he couldn't drink out of a cup because the spoon tickled his ear.

Laughter.

Dot H.: Old stuff!

Doris: But really, girls, don't you think Dutchie is a dear?

Betty: So's Nilesie!

Dot D.: So's Birdie!

Doris: By the way, did you care for Over the Hill, Dot?

Dot D.: Oh yes! (Sits on edge of chair.) It was just marvelous—especially when the son went to the poorhouse. You see, he found his mother scrubbing floors; so what did he do but kick over the water pail, take his mother in his arms, and then dash out with her! Oh, I was so thrilled!

Doris (decidedly): There! I hope that is what my son will do if ever I get to the poorhouse! (General laughter.) Well, I must admit that I like strong, vigorous action!

(General uproar. Doris blushes, offers a perfunctory "Well!" and retires into herself.)

Glad: Tapioca.

Dot Holt: Custard.

Dot D.: It's bread pudding!

Helen W.: Oh, how simple! Pardon me if I seem to leave. (Picks up waitress' tray and departs via kitchen.)

Dot H. (ironically): How disgraceful! As Seniors we really should—

Place: Dancing Teacher's Rooms.

Enter, in rank and file a group of Bates faculty.

Dancing Teacher steps forward.

D. Teacher: I beg your pardon?

Prexie: Er—you are the dancing teacher, I presume?

(Dancing Teacher bows.)

Prexie (severely) : I see!! Wee—er—wee are a group of Bates faculty!! (D. T. bows respectfully.) And wee—wee have come here on a certain commission!!!

Birdie (nervously) : Yes—a certain commission! He—he!

Freddie: Go on, Pwesident Gway.

Prexie: Er, Miss—,wee have come to the conclusion that the modern dance is taking a step too far!!

Goosie (correcting) : A step too near, President Gray.

Mac (undertone) : Every little movement has a meaning all its own!

Birdie, Nola He-he!!

Pres. Gray: Wee—wee have deliberated on the matter, and we find certain objections to the modern dance. We object—firstly—let us say to the——

Harry Rowe: Honey-Bug!

Pom (excited) : Ker-choo!!!

Prexie: Yes—this Honey Bug! What did you say about it, Pomeroy? Too much proximity—oh, yes! Furthermore, wee fail to see the beauty in the—the toddle, I think you call it!

Freddie (enlightened) : Oh yes—put one, take two! Pwesident Gway is right—we don't believe in games of chance.

Goosie: No—no, Freddie, you're on the wrong track! The toddle is a dance—a movement—an undulation. The toddle——

Dr. Sleeper: That's what they all got, President Gray. Found it on both sides of the campus. Need to give 'em all the same thing! Fred Sylvester, he's got it! Helen Coombs, she's got it!

Mac: Everybody's doing it!

Prexie: Yes—yes, I know! And so wee—wee have come to face the dance situation!! Er—what was that you said about the ideal dance, Dr. Britan?

Dr. Britan: Heh! Well, the dance is supposed to express grace, isn't it? It's—it's eese of movement! Heh! Guess that was what I said, Dr. Gray.

Freddie: Yes, Miss—, the ideal dawnce should be copied from the classics. Now you take the nymphs——

Goosie: Yaws, and the Greek choruses, Professor Knapp.

Freddie: Miss—, I—er—was wondering if you could be a nymph! (Smiles delightfully.)

Birdie: Yes—yes—in fact, I wondered, too?

D. T.: Why, I teach aesthetic dancing, if that's what you mean.

La-La (on tip-toes in his eagerness) : Tra-la-la! That's the word—aesthetic!

Freddie: We place ourselves in your hands.

Birdie: Yes—in fact—I place myself in your hands!

SCENE II.

Place: Beacon Hall, as viewed from one corner of the room.

Time: Several months have danced delightfully by.

Birdie (dancing by): Let's see—one, two, three, four! No—one, two, three, four! However, I guess we have it. Now, er, Miss—, I guess we'll dip. That is, if you want to dip. Do you care to dip, Miss—?

Goosie (appearing): This is very snappy music, but not quite snappy enough to jazz.

Mac (toddling along): Hullo—there's my friend La-La! Boy! See that man do the camel-walk! Wish I could line up with him when it comes to covering the ground. You——

Monie (walks slowly by): Why don't I jazz up a bit? Oh, it's easier just to walk. Wasn't that n-nice, r-rich punch we had, Miss—?

Dr. Britan (stimulated to dance): Huh! I understand the waltz is coming back. It'll seem sort of flat—heh—!! Just a little closer, Miss—, I couldn't get that last remark.

Music stops. Pianist announces exhibition.

Prexie and partner take the center of the floor, the music starts, and a wild and strange process takes place—much and intricate manipulation of the feet.

Freddie (perched excitedly on edge of chair): What's Pwesident Gway twying to do?

La-La: The Chicago, of course!

Freddie: Oh!

The spectacle continues for some time, becoming more and more labyrinthine. Fate intervenes, however, and Clifton Daggett, out-Chicagoing the Chicago, finds himself sliding at full length on his hairless pate.

Enter student member of Dance Committee. Stampede follows, the Brainy Professors seeking flight or refuge behind chairs or within the punch bowls (preferably the latter).

Monie (advising, breathless): The wicked shall stand in slippery places!

Member of Dance Committee (in headlong pursuit): And some can't even do that!

Love is background of all things)

Pretty man to harmonize same

A scientific mind says dogs have emotion of love. Dogs love masters.

Do dogs reason?

Say, when's he going to chuck that dog stuff?

Huh! The poor prep is antiquated by now. Carl Rounds ate him in a hot dog sandwich last year.

I thought I had'nt seen him in chapel lately.

Carl or the dog? // Ypire too clever

Say, sweetie, you've got quite a background haven't you?

Rats!

Don't you think Bordie would be a peach on the divan? Not as nice as Carl Benny

Say, sleeves evening dress? Got sleeved for Prom? No? I'm going to wear a rubber

Sympathy closely allied with human emotions. Of great importance to social life of man. Tender emotion cannot be described.

Eleanore B. (intoning à la ——): Seek happiness and pursue it, Miss Mitchell.

Lola (excitedly): That's just it! Now what do you consider Happiness? Here I am in my Youth (waxes eloquent). Youth means Adventure—Spirit!!

Eleanor: 'N Romance! Hope on!!

Lola: At my left hand stands the Altar; at my right rolls the Great Western Plains. Shall I choose a Happy Home on some Forsaken Farm or shall I step forth into the Great West and there experience Thrills—THRILLS!!?!

Elva: Well, I agree with Bi-ill. A woman's place——

Lola (defiantly): Dare you use that phrase— The modern——!!

(Enter Doris Hooper and Helen Richardson—disgusted.)

Doris: If you people were nice, you'd try to be quiet so that other people could sleep.

Eleanore: Right this way, ladies! Best side-show of the season! Hear our swearing, tearing, black-haired Lola in her famous ditty, "Goodbye, Happy Home, Good-bye! I'm Going West!"

Lola: But really, Doris, would you go West with me? There's Nevada!! Think of it—the Wild and Wooly Nevada!

Doris (sniffling): Well, I want you to know that Helen and I already have a position in New York State!

Helen R.: He-he—yes; and the Chairman of the School Board wrote the craziest letter—honest! He said——

Doris: Never mind what he said. (To Lola) Besides, Nevada's too far away from my Charlie Boy!

Elva: I feel that way about Bi-ill!

Grace (bursting in at 10:50 from entertaining): Oh girls, Waldo says we're going to get initiated into Phi Beta Kappa next Friday night! Aren't you thrilled, Eleanore?

Eleanore (drawling): Wall, I can't say as I'm turribly upsought!

Grace: But to wear a Key!..... .....

Eleanore (chanting): Oh, the Phi Beta Skippers, the Phi Beta Skippers!

Lola (still thrilled over Life!): Now, Olive, you'll go with me, won't you? Think of the Great Stretch of Plains, the Cactus Plant, the—the Cowboys!!

Olive (impressed): How marvelous!

Parker Hall—Inside Stuff

Bates Catalogue: "Parker Hall is one of the most home-like dormitories in New England."

Time: Anywhere from 10:30 P.M. to 4:30 A.M.

Place: Parker Hall.

All is quiet with the exception of the buzz of industrious students learning the gentle art of stacking the decks. The second floor lights suddenly fail to function. Occupants of said floor appear en masse in the vague light of the corridor.

Universal shout: We want lights!

Mr. Kelley (leader of chorus): The third floor has them. Can they have them if we can't?

Universal shout: No, a thousand times no!

Simultaneously the lights of the entire building dim and fade away, plunging the said entire building into well-known Stygian darkness. Coincidently Rumford Taylor and California Johnson dive into the warm and wooly. Bedlam bursts forth from top to bottom.

Still the Universal shout: We want lights!

Voice from the gloom: Try and get 'em.

Frenzied appeal from the French and MacLean lair, third floor: Harry Rowe! Parker Hall Association!

Kelly and Luce, having been wet by surreptitious water-bags from above, offer to clean up the third floor. For a moment it looks like the passing of the third floor back.

Then "The Deluge!"

This is an exquisite scene, and would be a success on any Broadway stage. The huge waste-cans, filled to overflowing, start their precipitous descent over the stairs from the fourth to the first floors. Boston Symphony take note: A similar action behind the curtain during a rendition of "The Storm" would eliminate a deal of furious performance.

The Bursar, passing by on his return from a late business meeting, hears the oft-repeated calls for succor and comes to the rescue. With the aid of the redoubtable electrician, Duffin Clifford and several others, he manages to turn the darkness into light.

The corridor crowds paddle or wade their way back to their respective rooms. At this auspicious moment the Black Maria with some ten of "Lewiston's finest" appear on the scene.

Captain: Well! well! What are you trying to do, float the ark down to Union Square?

Bursar and police exeunt. Prolonged cheering.

SCENE II (Or Rather An After-Thought).

Outside of Parker Hall the morning after.

R-r-r-obert MacDonald (meeting the Bursar): A braw mornin', Mr. Rowe. Will you be coming in and see what the boys have done the nicht?

Bursar: Er, no, Robert—thank you. I was in last evening.

STILL ANOTHER THOUGHT

Scene: Breakfast at the Commons.

Buote, Sullivan and Carpenter (dwellers on the first floor of P. H.): What was going on last evening?

Stickney and Sylvester (second floor): Gosh! I don't know!

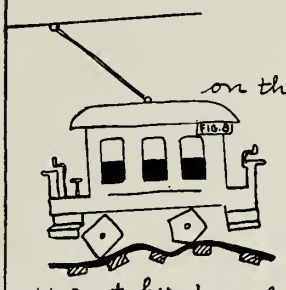
Maurice: What was it? I was in Rumford.

Kelly, Luce, Mac, Frenchy and others look wise.

NOTE: Refer to excerpt from catalogue.



Look at her! Poor superannuated thing! She's the worst old-maid on the campus. Once, you know, she had some figger! But she was jilted and since then has tried bouncing everyone else. And she's set — fact all she does on upper Pine Street, just sets. Never where you want her 'n — but sh! she's very old and has never told how you stole in at 10:30 or what she saw on the corner of Fig St. Oh! she's some figger!
